Each prospective purchaser of Notes should consider carefully whether the Notes are suitable for it in light of its circumstances and financial position. Prospective investors in Notes should consult their own legal, tax, accountancy and other professional advisers to assist them in determining the suitability of the Notes for them as an investment.

RISK FACTORS

The Issuer believes that the factors described in the section of the Base Prospectus entitled “Risk Factors” (the Programme Risk Factors), which is incorporated by reference into this Drawdown Prospectus, may affect its ability to fulfil its obligations under the Notes. Most of these factors are contingencies which may or may not occur and the Issuer is not in a position to express a view on the likelihood of any such contingency occurring.

In addition, factors which are material for the purpose of assessing the market risks associated with the Notes are described in the Programme Risk Factors.

The Issuer believes that the factors described in the Programme Risk Factors, together with the risk factors in relation to the CIBC Custom 1 Agriculture Commodity Index and Conflicts of Interest as set out below, represent the principal risks inherent in investing in the Notes, but the inability of the Issuer to pay interest, principal or other amounts on or in connection with the Notes may occur for other reasons and the Issuer does not represent that the statements in the Programme Risk Factors and below regarding the risks associated with the CIBC Custom 1 Agriculture Commodity Index and Conflicts of Interest are exhaustive. Prospective investors should also read the detailed information set out elsewhere or incorporated by reference in this Drawdown Prospectus and reach their own views prior to making any investment decision.

Prospective investors should carefully consider the following risk factors in relation to the CIBC Custom 1 Agriculture Commodity Index:

Risk Factors

PERFORMANCE OF THE CIBC CUSTOM 1 AGRICULTURE COMMODITY INDEX, EXPLANATION OF EFFECT ON VALUE OF INVESTMENT AND ASSOCIATED RISKS AND OTHER INFORMATION CONCERNING THE CIBC CUSTOM 1 AGRICULTURE COMMODITY INDEX

Noteholders may lose all or a significant amount of their investment in the Notes. The Issuer will not repay the Noteholder a fixed amount of principal on the Notes at maturity and the Issuer is not liable for any loss of principal that the Noteholder may incur due to fluctuations in the Index value.

The Redemption Amount will depend on the change in the value of the CIBC Custom 1 Agriculture Commodity Index. Because the value of the Index is subject to market fluctuations, the Redemption Amount may be less than the principal amount of the Notes, and the Noteholders will lose part or all of their investment if the Final Index Value is below the Initial Index Value. Even if the Final Index Value is above the Initial Index Value, the Noteholders may lose part of their investment if the excess does not offset the deduction in the Redemption Amount for the cost of providing the commodity-linked return on the Notes. Noteholders may also lose part or all of their investment if they sell the Notes before their maturity.

If there is a Commodity Hedging Disruption Event, the Issuer will be able to accelerate the Notes early, at a price determined by the Calculation Agent.

Commodity futures contracts are subject to legal and regulatory regimes in the United States and, in some cases, in other countries that may change in ways that could adversely affect the Issuer’s ability to hedge its obligations under the securities. In the United States, the Commodity Futures Trading Commission has recently announced that it is considering imposing position limits on certain commodities and the manner in which current exemptions for hedging transactions or positions are implemented. Such restrictions may cause the Issuer to be unable to effect transactions necessary to hedge its obligations under the Notes, in which case the Issuer may, in its sole and absolute discretion, accelerate the repayment of the Notes by paying the Noteholders their fair market value, as determined in good faith and in a commercially reasonable manner by the Calculation Agent, as further described in paragraph 16 of Part A of the Terms and Conditions of the Notes as set out on pages 17 to 19 (inclusive) of this Drawdown Prospectus. In this event, the price determined by the Calculation Agent – which may differ from the Redemption Amount – would be binding on the Issuer and holders. If the Notes are accelerated due to a Commodity Hedging Disruption Event, the Noteholders' investment may result in a loss and the Noteholders may not be able to reinvest their money in a comparable investment.

The formula for determining the Redemption Amount does not take into account all developments in the CIBZC1AG over the term of the Notes.

The formula used to calculate the Redemption Amount only compares the Initial Index Value and the Final Index Value. No other Index levels will be taken into account for that purpose. As a result, the Noteholders may lose part of their investment even if the Index has risen at certain times during the term of the Notes before falling to a level below the Initial Index Value on the Final Valuation Date.

CIBC Custom 1 Agriculture Commodity Index was launched on 25 September 2012 and currently historical performance data is available for the limited period subsequent to the launch of this Index to the date of this Drawdown Prospectus. Longer term performance of this Index will only become available over the continued life of the Index. At present, Noteholders will not be able to access any such long term Index trend.

Data sourcing, calculation and concentration risks associated with the CIBZC1AG may adversely affect the market price of the Notes.

The Notes are linked to the Index, which is composed of a basket of four underlying commodity Indices, and is therefore less diversified than funds or investment portfolios investing in a broader range of products. Accordingly, the Notes could experience greater volatility than such other investments. Additionally, the rebalancing of the Index is subject to potential errors in data sources or other errors that may affect the weighting of the Underlying Indices. Additionally, the Index Administrator may not discover every discrepancy. The Index Administrator also has discretion in making decisions with respect to the Index and has no obligation to take the needs of the holders of the Notes into consideration when rebalancing or making any other changes to the Index. Finally, the Underlying Indices are concentrated in a limited number of commodities. An investment in the Notes may therefore carry risks similar to a concentrated securities investment in a limited number of industries or sectors.

The value of the Notes may be influenced by many factors that are complex and unpredictable.

Reference to the value of the Notes means the value that the Noteholders could receive for their Notes if they chose to sell them in the open market before the maturity date.

The value of the Notes will be affected by many factors that are beyond the Issuer's control and are unpredictable. These factors are likely to include, without limitation, the impact of nature, human impact events, climatic effects and changes, transportation risks, market supply and demand of the underlying commodities, the operation and the regulation of the relevant physical and future commodity markets and of the Index, the creditworthiness of the Issuer and the liquidity of the Note in the secondary market and the predictability of the future occurrence, if any, of the same. Moreover, these factors interrelate in complex ways, and the effect of one factor on the value of the Notes may offset or enhance the effect of another factor. One of the risks in investing in a product tied to the Index is the complexity of the different factors which contribute to the results of the Index. The Index could decline in a wide range of market scenarios, including ones in which other commodity indices rise substantially.

Prices of commodity futures contracts may change unpredictably, affecting the value of the Notes in unforeseeable ways.

Prices of commodity futures contracts are affected by a variety of factors, including weather, governmental programs and policies, national and international political and economic events, changes in interest and exchange rates and trading activities in commodities and related contracts. These factors may affect the level of the Index and the value of the Notes in varying ways, and different factors may cause the value of different Underlying Indices, and the volatilities of their prices, to move in directions not anticipated in the methodologies underlying the Index.

The Index level will affect the value of the Notes, but the market value of the Notes may not change in the same manner as the level of the Index.

The Issuer expects that the market value of the Notes at any particular time will depend substantially on the amount, if any, by which the level of the Index at that time has risen above or has fallen below the Initial Index Value.

However, the value of the Notes may develop quite differently from the performance of the Index. For the reasons described above under “The formula for determining the Redemption Amount does not take into account all developments in the CIBZCIAG over the term of the Notes” and other market-related reasons, such as those described below changes in the level of the Index may not result in comparable changes in the value of the Notes. If the Notes are sold prior to maturity, the Noteholders may receive substantially less than the amount that would be payable if the Redemption Amount were calculated as if the date of sale were the Maturity Date because of an expectation that the Index value will continue to fluctuate, or exhibit volatility, until the Final Index Value is determined. If the Notes are sold at a time when the level of the Index has generally trended below, or not sufficiently above, the Initial Index Value, the Noteholders may receive less than the principal amount of their Notes. Political, economic and other developments that affect the Underlying Indices may also affect the level of the Index and, indirectly, the market value of the Notes.

Suspensions or disruptions of trading in the commodity and related futures markets may adversely affect the value of the Notes.

The commodity markets are subject to temporary distortions or other disruptions due to various factors, including the lack of liquidity in the markets, the participation of speculators and government regulation and intervention. In addition, U.S. futures exchanges and some foreign exchanges have regulations that limit the amount of fluctuation in futures contract prices which may occur during a single business day. These limits are generally referred to as “daily price fluctuation limits” and the maximum or minimum price of a contract on any given day as a result of these limits is referred to as a “limit price.” Once the limit price has been reached in a particular contract, trading restrictions will follow the regulations set forth by the trading facility on which the contract is listed. Limit prices may have the effect of precluding trading in a particular contract, which could adversely affect the value of the Index and, therefore, the value of the Notes.

If a Market Disruption Event occurs in respect of any Underlying Index, the value of that index at the Final Valuation Date, the Final Index Value and the Redemption Amount will be calculated by the Calculation Agent in the manner described under Part A, Provision 30(v). Accordingly, the calculation of the indexed payment may be delayed beyond what would otherwise be the valuation date and may be subject to the judgment of the Calculation Agent. Additionally, regardless of the market disruption event, the Index Administrator may continue to calculate the value of the Index and publish such value. Therefore, if a market disruption event occurs, the redemption amount may not reflect the actual value of the Index on the valuation date.

Investing in the Notes will not make holders owners of any of the Underlying Indices or the constituent commodities of such Underlying Indices. Any amounts due on the Notes will be paid in cash and holders will have no right to receive delivery of any Underlying Indices or the constituent commodities of such Underlying Indices.

CIBC CUSTOM 1 AGRICULTURE COMMODITY INDEX

General

The CIBC Custom 1 Agriculture Commodity Index is a basket of indices that rebalance to fixed weights on a monthly basis. The Index is designed to provide exposure to various components of the agriculture markets.

Each of the constituent indices in the Index (each, an “Underlying Index” and collectively the “Underlying Indices”) is derived from the CIBC Composite Commodity Index (the “Benchmark Index”) with modifications to the existing methodology that include amendments to the futures contract that the Underlying Index references and the roll period the Underlying Index transfers its exposure from one futures contract to the next.

The following are the Underlying Indices and their current weighting:

Name	Ticker	Weight
CIBC Enhanced Sugar Commodity Index	CIBZESB	32.440%
CIBC Enhanced Live Cattle 3 Commodity Index	CIBZ3LC	2.680%
CIBC Enhanced Soybean Commodity Index	CIBZESO	32.440%
CIBC Soybean Meal 1 Commodity Index	CIBZ1SM	32.440%

More information regarding the CIBC Custom 1 Agriculture Commodity Index may be found in the Index Methodology as set out in Annex A hereto.

Conflicts of Interest

The Issuer is the Index Administrator and Calculation Agent of the CIBC Custom 1 Agriculture Commodity Index.

The Issuer makes no representation in any capacity whatsoever, including in its respective capacities as Index Administrator and Calculation Agent, whether express or implied, as to the advisability of purchasing or assuming any risk in connection with an investment in the Notes.

Various potential and actual conflicts may arise between the interests of the Noteholders and the Issuer, as a result of the commercial and investment banking businesses and activities of the Issuer and its affiliates. The Issuer may recommend or effect a transaction in which it or any affiliate, or one of its other clients, may have an interest, relationship or arrangement that is material. In particular, the Issuer or any affiliate may deal as principal for its own account, to hedge liabilities under the Notes or for other purposes, and may match a transaction or order with that of another client. Neither the Issuer nor any affiliate is under any duty to account for any profits, commission, remuneration, rebates or other benefits made or received as a result of such transaction or service.

Further, the Issuer is the Calculation Agent with regard to the Notes. The Calculation Agent is solely responsible for making certain determinations of the redemption amount and other determinations and calculations in connection with the Notes. Because the Calculation Agent is the Issuer, and is obligated to redeem the Notes, the Calculation Agent may have economic interests adverse to those of the holders of the Notes, including with respect to certain determinations and judgements that the Calculation Agent must make, any of which may affect payments in respect of the Notes. In its capacity as Calculation Agent, the Issuer does not act as fiduciary for or an advisor to any of the Noteholders in respect of any such determination or judgment or otherwise.

As at the date hereof, the Issuer acts as Index Administrator and Calculation Agent with respect to the Index. In such capacities, the Issuer may have economic interests adverse to those of the Noteholders, including with respect to certain determinations and judgments that the Index Administrator and/or Calculation Agent may be required to make pursuant to the terms of the Index, any of which may affect payments in respect of the Notes. The Issuer may act in its own interests in such capacities and need no have regard to the interests of the Noteholders.

However, the Index Methodology recognises that the objectivity, independence, transparency and controls relating to the Index must be upheld and the CIBC established Commodity Index Review Committee is responsible for upholding these standards, as well as taking such action as it deems necessary or appropriate in order to address any Market Disruption Event or other extraordinary market events or conditions. While ceasing to calculate and publish the Index may, in certain circumstances, be inevitable, the Commodity Index Review Committee has sufficient powers to take any other course of action which may allow the Index to continue with its current constituent parts or on a revised basis.

In its capacity as either the Index Administrator or Calculation Agent, the Issuer does not act as fiduciary for or an advisor to the Noteholder in respect of any determination or judgment or otherwise.

None of the Issuer or any of its affiliates is under any obligation to the Noteholder in respect of any of the roles of any such person with respect to the Index. No such person is under any obligation to monitor whether or not any event or circumstance has occurred unless it is explicitly and positively stated that such person will do so. No such person will be required to (or will be responsible for any failure to make any determination, waiver, declaration or decision whatsoever in relation to the Index on behalf of or in the interests of the Noteholder.

PROVISIONS RELATING TO REDEMPTION

16. Call Option:

If a Commodity Hedging Disruption Event (as defined below) occurs, the Issuer will have the right, but not the obligation, to accelerate payment on the Notes (in whole, and not in part) by providing written notice of its election to exercise such right to the Fiscal Agent (on which notice the Fiscal Agent may conclusively rely), as promptly as possible and in no event later than ten (10) London and New York Business Days following the day on which such Commodity Hedging Disruption Event has occurred.

The amount due and payable per Calculation Amount of Notes in the event of any such acceleration shall be (a) determined by the Calculation Agent and will be an amount in cash equal to the Redemption Price, calculated (i) if written notice of the Issuer’s election to accelerate payment on the Notes is received by the Fiscal Agent on an Index Business Day at or before 12:00 p.m. (noon) New York City time, with the Index Business Day immediately succeeding such notice date being the Final Valuation Date, and (ii) if such written notice is received by the Fiscal Agent on a day that is not an Index Business Day or after 12:00 p.m. (noon) New York City time on an Index Business Day, with the second succeeding Trading Day immediately following such notice date being the Final Valuation Date (such first or second succeeding Index Business Day, as applicable, being referred to as the “Commodity Hedging Disruption Event Valuation Date”), and (b) and will be payable to holders of the Notes on the related Maturity Date. The Issuer will cause the Fiscal Agent to provide prompt notice to the holder of the Note of the Issuer’s election to accelerate payment on the Notes and of the Final Valuation Date and the related Maturity Date. In the event of any such acceleration, the Issuer will (a) provide, or will cause the Calculation Agent to provide, written notice to the Fiscal Agent (on which notice the Fiscal Agent may conclusively rely), and to Euroclear Bank S.A./N.V. and Clearstream Banking société anonyme (the “Clearing Systems”) of the cash amount due and payable with respect to each Calculation Amount of Notes as promptly as possible and in no event later than two (2) New York Business Days prior to the date on which such payment is due and (b) cause the Fiscal Agent to provide, written notice to the holder of the Note of the cash amount due and payable with respect to each Calculation Amount of Notes not later than noon on the New York Business Days prior to the date on which such payment is due. For the avoidance of doubt, all procedures and determinations set forth above shall only be applicable with respect to acceleration of payment on the Notes by the Issuer as a result of a Commodity Hedging Disruption Event.

A “Commodity Hedging Disruption Event” shall occur if any of the following events occurs:

(i) due to (a) the adoption of, or any change in, any applicable law, regulation or rule or (b) the promulgation of, or any change in, the interpretation by any court, tribunal or regulatory authority with competent jurisdiction of any applicable law, rule, regulation or order (including, without limitation, as implemented by the U.S. Commodity Futures Trading Commission or any exchange or trading facility), in each case occurring on or after the Pricing Date, the Calculation Agent determines in good faith that it is contrary to such law, rule, regulation or order to purchase, sell, enter into, maintain, hold, acquire or dispose of our or our affiliates' (A) positions or contracts in securities, options, futures, derivatives or foreign exchange or (B) other instruments or arrangements, in each case, in order to hedge individually or in the aggregate on a portfolio basis our obligations under the Notes (clauses (A) and (B) together, "hedge positions"), including, without limitation, if such hedge positions are (or, but for the consequent disposal thereof, would otherwise be) in excess of any allowable position limit(s) in relation to any commodity traded on any exchange(s) or other trading facility (it being within the sole and absolute discretion of the Calculation Agent to determine which of the hedge positions are counted towards such limit);

(ii) after using its good faith efforts to identify alternative means of hedging, the Issuer's costs relating to the hedge positions (individually or in the aggregate on a portfolio basis) would materially increase from the amount of such costs existing on the Issue Date. For purposes of the foregoing sentence, the Issuer's costs will be deemed to include, but not be limited to, tax, duties, expenses and fees incurred in connection with acquiring, establishing, re-establishing, substituting, maintaining, unwinding or disposing of hedge positions; or

(iii) the Index Administrator permanently cancels, materially modifies or fails to calculate and announce such Index and the Issuer and the holder of the Notes are unable mutually to agree in good faith on a replacement Index within three (3) New York Business Days following the occurrence of such cancellation, change or failure.

CIBC Custom 1 Agriculture Commodity Index Index Methodology

Ticker: CIBZC1AG Index

I. Introduction

The CIBC Custom 1 Agriculture Commodity Index (the Index) is a basket of indices that rebalance to fixed weights on a monthly basis. The Index is designed to provide exposure to various components of the agriculture markets.

Each of the constituent indices in the Index (each, an Underlying Index and collectively the Underlying Indices) is derived from the CIBC Composite Commodity Index (the Benchmark Index) with modifications to the existing methodology that include amendments to the futures contract that the Underlying Index references and the roll period the Underlying Index transfers its exposure from one futures contract to the next. Capitalized terms used in this Index Methodology that are not defined have the meaning given to them in the Index Methodology for the Benchmark Index. All provisions of the Index Methodology for the Benchmark Index will apply to the Index except as modified by this Index Methodology.

CIBC is the owner of the full right, title and interest to the CIBC Custom 1 Agriculture Commodity Index and is the Index Administrator. Any use of this Index Methodology or the Custom 1 Agriculture Commodity Index without the prior consent of CIBC is strictly prohibited.

II. Index Return Calculation

The CIBC Custom 1 Agriculture Commodity Index is an Excess Return index which is calculated by the Index Administrator on each Index Business Day and subsequently made available on Bloomberg. The Index is initialized on January 3, 2012 with an Initial index value of 100.

On each Index Business Day,  $t$ , the Index is calculated using the following formula, the results of which will be rounded to 5 decimal places.

Defined terms:

R is  $t$  if  $t$  is a Rebalance Date, otherwise the previous Rebalance Date.

IS<sub>t</sub> is the value of the applicable Underlying Index,  $j$ , on day  $t$

IS<sub>R-1</sub> is the value of the applicable Underlying Index,  $j$ , on the first Index Business Day preceding  $R$

I<sub>R-1</sub> is the value of the Index on the first Index Business Day preceding  $R$

W<sub>j</sub> is the Weight for the applicable Underlying Index,  $j$ , as set out in the table below under the definition of Underlying Index.

Rebalance Date is the 2nd Index Business Day of each month. If, on the 1st Index Business Day of a month, any of the futures contracts in the Underlying Indices are not available for trading, then the Rebalance Date will be delayed to the next Index Business Day on which all of the futures contracts in the Underlying Indices are available for trading. If there is a Market Disruption Event in any of the Underlying Indices on the Index Business Day prior to the Rebalance Date, the Rebalance Date for the Underlying Index with the Market Disruption will be the previous Rebalance Date and the following Index Business Day will be an additional Rebalance Date for all of the components.

j is the applicable Underlying Index.

Underlying Index means each of the indices set out in the table below:

Name	Ticker	Weight
CIBC Enhanced Sugar Commodity Index	CIBZESB	32.440%

Index Business Day is a day on which all of the Underlying Indices are calculated, as determined in accordance with the NYSE Euronext Trading Calendar. The Index Administrator may deviate from this schedule if any day is not a Contract Business Day under the CIBC CCI Index Methodology applicable to the Benchmark Index for each of the futures contracts then in the Underlying Indices.

III. Index Data and Dissemination

Index values will be made available no later than 5:00 pm (ET) on each Index Business Day on Bloomberg under ticker CIBZC1AG <Index>. If any exchange or sponsor amends the closing price of a futures contract in an Underlying Index subsequent to publication or if there is an error in any previously published Index values, the Index Administrator will publish corrected values on Bloomberg as soon as practicable.

The Index Administrator is responsible for gathering the base data for the Index. On each Index Business Day, the Index Administrator will record the closing price of each constituent futures contract included in the Index from the relevant exchange. From the base data obtained, the Index Administrator will calculate the excess return Index level. Index levels will not be calculated for any day that is not an Index Business Day.

IV. Market Disruption Event

A Market Disruption Event means any event such as 1) force majeure, war, acts of terrorism or any other unanticipated extraordinary market event that prevents a Recognized Exchange from providing settlement prices for a Specified Contract (the Affected Contract), or 2) a day on which a Specified Contract used in the Index moves by the maximum amount allowed by the exchange from the previous day's settlement price. Examples of a Market Disruption Event include the termination, suspension or prolonged interruption of trading for any reason with respect to a Specified Contract on the relevant Recognized Exchange. The Index Administrator will determine in good faith and on a commercially reasonable basis whether a Market Disruption Event has occurred and is continuing.

For so long as a Market Disruption Event has occurred and is continuing, the Index Administrator shall establish an interim settlement price on each CIBC CCI business day for the Affected Contract for the purpose of calculating the excess return (the Interim Settlement Price). The Interim Settlement Price for such day shall be the last available Reference Price; provided if the Market Disruption Event occurred on such CIBC CCI business day, the Interim Settlement Price shall be the last closing price quoted by the Recognized Exchange.

An Index Calculation Disruption Event occurs if a Market Disruption Event continues for 10 weekdays on any recognized exchange, the Index Advisory Committee shall forthwith hold an emergency meeting to decide the appropriate course of action, which may include the substitution or removal of the Affected Contract, the suspension or the discontinuance of the Index and any constituent thereof. Although the likelihood of prolonged suspension or discontinuance is expected to be remote, users of the CIBC Commodity Indices are advised to designate a successor index and other market disruption fallback alternatives for any transaction referencing the CIBC Commodity Indices.

V. Extraordinary Circumstances

The Index Administrator reserves the right to take such action, including modifying, temporarily suspending or discontinuing the Index, to address market emergencies or other extraordinary market events or conditions.

CIBC may, in its sole discretion, cease to calculate and publish the Index at any time.

VI. Index Governance

CIBC has established a Commodity Index Review Committee. The Committee is responsible for, among other things, reviewing and approving this Index Methodology. The Committee is also responsible to uphold the objectivity, independence, transparency and controls relating to the Index. The Committee will cause to be conducted an annual review to ensure that the Index Methodology is consistently followed and to ensure the integrity of the Index data and calculation results. As the supervisory body of the CIBC Commodity Indices, the Committee is empowered to apply, interpret and amend the Index Methodology. The Committee consists of full-time professional staff of CIBC. The Committee is subject to the general oversight of the Index Advisory Committee.

Index maintenance, calculation, rebalancing and general governance are the responsibility of the Index Administrator.

Neither the Index Methodology nor any set of procedures are capable of anticipating all possible circumstances and events that may occur with respect to the Index and the methodology for its calculation. Accordingly, a number of subjective judgments are made in connection with the operation of the Index that cannot be adequately reflected in this Index methodology. All questions of interpretation with respect to the application of the provisions of this Index Methodology, including any determinations that need to be made in the event of a market emergency or other extraordinary event, will be resolved by the Commodity Index Review Committee and, if necessary, the Index Advisory Committee.

Modifications to the Index Methodology used to calculate the Index may be required from time to time. CIBC reserves the right to make such changes or refinements to the methodology as it believes necessary in order to preserve and enhance the utility of the Index. CIBC also reserves the right, as Index Administrator, to take such action as it deems necessary or appropriate in order to address market emergencies or other extraordinary market events or conditions.

Roll Methodology

Each Specified Contract constituting the Underlying Index will be subject to a fixed roll of 20% per day into the next nearby contract from the seventeenth to the twenty-first CIBC CCI business day of the relevant roll month (each a Roll Date and, the entire period, the Roll Period). Please note that these CIBC CCI business days refer to the pricing dates, not the physical hedge dates of the roll, which are the sixteenth to the twentieth CIBC CCI business day of the relevant roll month. In the event that a given January has less than twenty CIBC CCI business days, the roll period will be advanced by the number of CIBC CCI business days less than 20. For example if there are only 19 CIBC CCI business days then the Underlying Index will roll beginning on the 15th CIBC CCI business day, one day prior to the original roll.

SB	H	H1

For the avoidance of doubt this Underlying Index rolls once per year during the 17-21st CIBC CCI business days of January from the current year March Specified Contract into the following year March Specified Contract. For example in January 2013 the Underlying Index will roll from SBH3 into SBH4.

(4) Significant or Material Change and Litigation

Save as disclosed under the heading "Contingent liabilities and provision" at page 150 of CIBC's 2012 Annual Report and the press release issued by CIBC dated 31 December 2012 announcing that CIBC had reached a settlement with the Lehman Estate, each incorporated herein by reference, as at the date hereof, there are no governmental, legal or arbitration proceedings (including any such proceedings which are pending or threatened, of which the Issuer is aware), which may have, or have had during the twelve months prior to the date of this Drawdown Prospectus, a significant effect on the financial position or profitability of the Issuer and its subsidiaries.

(5) Other Relationships

They may have received, or may in the future receive, customary fees and commissions for these transactions.

In addition, in the ordinary course of their business activities, the Manager and its affiliates may make or hold a broad array of investments and actively trade debt and equity securities (or related derivative securities) and financial instruments (including bank loans) for their own account and for the accounts of their customers. The Manager or its affiliates that have a lending relationship with the Issuer may routinely hedge their credit exposure to the Issuer consistent with their customary risk management policies. Typically, the Manager and its affiliates would hedge such exposure by entering into transactions which consist of either the purchase of credit default swaps or the creation of short positions in our securities, including potentially the Notes. Any such short positions could adversely affect the future trading prices of the Notes. The Manager and its affiliates may also make investment recommendations and/or publish or express independent research views in respect of such securities or financial instruments and may hold, or recommend to clients that they acquire, long and/or short positions in such securities and instruments.
