StartupToken receives inward investment from one of the world's major investment funds in blockchain

CoinSilium Group Limited (NEX:COIN), the blockchain venture builder, advisor and investor that finances and manages the development of early-stage blockchain technology companies, is pleased to announce an important development for its investee company StartupToken Ltd ("StartupToken") in which CoinSilium announced in November 2017 that it had acquired a 30% holding.

Highlights:

- In November 2017 CoinSilium announced it had acquired a 30% holding in StartupToken Ltd at a valuation of circa £1.2 million;
- StartupToken is a Gibraltar-registered hyper accelerator helping entrepreneurs in the blockchain space to grow their projects into successful startups;
- Blockwater Capital, a leading South-Korea digital asset investment fund, and one of the world's major investment funds in blockchain, has now acquired 7.4% of StartupToken for total consideration of £193,548.39, valuing StartupToken at £2.6 million;
- CoinSilium welcomes this investment in StartupToken from Blockwater, who share a complementary investment approach to CoinSilium as illustrated by previous co-investments in RSK Labs (now RIF Labs) and Bundle Network;
- The implied valuation of StartupToken on the Blockwater investment, at £2.6 million, represents a 116% increase on CoinSilium's own investment in November 2017;
- As a result, CoinSilium's seed capital investment in November 2017 of £360,905, is now worth £722,222, an increase of 100% compared to the original investment;

The uplift in valuation since the announcement of CoinSilium purchasing shares in StartupToken, illustrates the strong progress made by StartupToken in the preceding 12 months and demonstrates that the business is well positioned to take advantage of the growing blockchain and crypto communities across a key blockchain territory of Asia. Following this latest round of investment, CoinSilium's equity shareholding in StartupToken will stand at 27.8%.

Commenting, Yacine Terai, CEO of StartupToken, said: "We are delighted to receive the support from one of the world's major investment funds in blockchain, reaffirming our progress to date.

StartupToken's East Asia roadshows for its clients have been a particularly impressive source of growth, and one that has enabled us to gain a foothold in a crucial region which holds significant promise for the future of blockchain technology development.

We are also naturally grateful for CoinSilium's early investment and the confidence they have shown in StartupToken."

Adding, Eddy Travia, Chief Executive of CoinSilium, commented: "We have already stated that we have been greatly impressed by the speed at which StartupToken has been able to gain a strong presence in the industry and today's investment by one of the world's major investment funds in blockchain is a good way to finish off a highly active 2018.

We believe Blockwater, with its impressive portfolio of blockchain investments, is a great addition to StartupToken's equity holders.

Blockchain technology is set to enter a new era in 2019, with many industry experts expecting the technology to be more widely adopted by mainstream companies, charities and financial organizations. There are promising technological advances in other sectors that will allow blockchain to play a more prominent role in everyday life."
