

DON'T NOD expands its line-up with a new co-production in the buoyant action-RPG segment

Paris, September 8, 2022 - DON'T NOD, an independent French studio that creates, develops, and publishes video games, and Tiny Bull Studios, an independent development studio, are proud to announce their collaboration.

DON'T NOD will publish the upcoming Tiny Bull Studios game developed in the form of a co-production in which DON'T NOD will hold the majority rights of the intellectual property.

Based in Turin, Italy, Tiny Bull Studios, staffed by an experienced team of some 15 people, is currently developing an original creation in keeping with DON'T NOD's creative vision and values. The new game has powerful sales potential in the buoyant action-RPG segment.

DON'T NOD will share with Tiny Bull Studios its know-how and experience gained from existing products, notably Vampyr, in order to support the new "action-RPG" creation. Highly appreciated by a broad spectrum of players worldwide, the genre also resonates with the expectations of the studio's deeply engaged community.

The new collaboration will be a big value generator for DON'T NOD, which is bolstering its intellectual property portfolio and expanding its line-up beyond the confines of its in-house production capacity thanks to these collaborations and its new publisher-studio profile.

DON'T NOD CEO Oskar Guilbert said: "We are proud to welcome Tiny Bull Studios among our partners. We were won over by the singular project developed by this talented studio, which underlines DON'T NOD's commitment to supporting original creations in keeping with our mindset and values in a genre that appeals to a wide audience. We are proud to be signing our third collaboration in the space of 18 months, thereby furthering our ambitions as a publisher and bolstering our asset portfolio."

Tiny Bull Studios CEO Matteo Lana added: "This is a great opportunity for Tiny Bull Studios. Meaningful games have always been our focus and we are looking forward to working with such an outstanding partner on our next project."
