Atlas Copco Group hosts capital market day 2025

Nacka, Sweden, November 26, 2025: Atlas Copco Group hosts its capital markets day in Germany today. The purpose is to provide a run-through of the strategy and development of the Atlas Copco Group.

The capital markets day will provide participants with an in-depth understanding of the Vacuum Technique and Industrial Technique business areas and includes presentations by the Presidents of the two business areas as well as Vagner Rego, President and CEO and Peter Kinnart, CFO.

The first part of the capital markets day will be held in Stuttgart, and it will also be broadcast live. The second part of the day is an on-site tour of innovations, showing how Atlas Copco Group creates value for customers, held at the Group's premises in Bretten.

"I very much look forward to today's program. During the innovation tour we will showcase the latest development in some of our core technologies. The presentations will be focused on how we are mastering the current landscape and executing on our strategy", said Vagner Rego, President and CEO of the Atlas Copco Group.

Vagner Rego confirms the most recent outlook statement, published on October 23, 2025: Atlas Copco Group expects that the customer activity will remain at the current level.
