Faberge's Vice President to become consultant

Faberge's Vice President, Klaus Hansen Vikström, is leaving his post at Faberge for a consultancy role as of May 2019. This is the first step in laying the foundations for a freer role in the future and means that he will reduce his direct involvement in Faberge.

Within the scope of his consultancy role, Klaus Hansen Vikström will carry out specific assignments on Faberge's behalf while being giving the opportunity to broaden his assignment base to accommodate other clients. Within the scope of Faberge's assignment, a leading role is included in the development and construction of the Flemingsberg district. He will remain Vice President of Faberge until further notice.
