Changes to Intrum's Group Management Team

Emil Folkesson has been appointed interim CFO of Intrum. Anders Blomqvist, who took on the interim CFO role in December, remains as Senior Consultant reporting directly to CEO Andrés Rubio. The changes take effect from 16 February. In addition, new regional directors have been named for North and Middle Europe.

"Since Anders Blomqvist joined Intrum as interim CFO mid-December, the focus has been to close and announce the fourth quarter of 2023 and to finalise the asset sale to Cerberus which we announced 23 January", says Andrés Rubio, President & CEO of Intrum. "As we now have these two milestones behind us and are focussing on delivering on our strategic plan, we will benefit from Emil's historical experience and deep knowledge of Intrum. I am pleased to continue working with Anders Blomqvist, who, with his broad professional background, will be of great value in a senior consultancy role", concludes Andrés Rubio.

The recruitment process to find a permanent CFO continues and is in an advanced stage.

Two additional appointments have been made to Intrum's Group Management Team: Tommi Sova has been appointed Managing Director of Northern Europe (Sweden, Norway, Denmark, Finland and Poland) and Thomas Hutter has been appointed Managing Director of Middle Europe (UK/Ireland, France, Netherlands/Belgium, Germany/Austria and Switzerland). Tommi Sova remains Managing Director of Finland and Thomas Hutter is Managing Director of Switzerland.

"Both Tommi and Thomas have proven strong track records as Market Managing Directors at Intrum. I am very pleased to announce their broadened responsibilities for these two important regions where we have ambitious growth plans for the coming years", says Andrés Rubio.

Tommi Sova and Thomas Hutter will both report to President & CEO Andrés Rubio.
