Martin Noréus new Chief Risk Officer at Swedbank

Swedbank has appointed Martin Noréus as the Group's new Chief Risk Officer. He will take on his role on 1 May 2026, and will join Swedbank's Group Executive Committee on that date.

Martin Noréus has extensive experience from both banking and finance as well as from the public sector. Since 2020, he has held senior positions at Handelsbanken.

"I am pleased to welcome Martin to Swedbank. His broad knowledge and experience will be important as Group Risk continues to develop the bank's risk management," says Jens Henriksson, President and CEO of Swedbank.

Martin Noréus holds a Master of Science in Macroeconomics & Finance from HEC Lausanne and a Bachelor of Science in Economics from Uppsala University.

"I am very much looking forward to joining Swedbank and continuing to develop the Group's work in the risk area," says Martin Noréus.

Swedbank's current Chief Risk Officer, Rolf Marquardt, will remain in his role until Martin Noréus takes over, after which he will become a senior advisor.

"In May 2026, Rolf will pass on the torch as Group Risk enters its next phase. His insights and expertise make him exceptionally well-suited as a senior advisor and for board work within our companies. I look forward to continued good cooperation with Rolf," says Jens Henriksson.
