AGENDA

1. Overview of Private Equity in China

MARKET PERCEPTION (1)

Market perception -

"Most of the private equity investments by foreign investment funds in China are loss making."

Nevertheless, we believe it is only due to timing and cyclical issues:

- ◆ Prior to mid 90's, the Chinese economy and corporate sector were not mature enough to generate profitable deals.
 - Investors came in the market too early with excessive expectations and were disappointed by reality
- ◆ Investments made in the bullish sentiment when stock markets and valuation were at their highs.
 - Valuation subsequently came down and triggered losses

Investments made in the bullish sentiment when stock markets and valuation were at their highs.

MARKET PERCEPTION (2)

CURRENT ENVIRONMENT FOR PRIVATE EQUITY IN CHINA

After two decades of reform and development in China, we see improving fundamentals of the private equity market in China:

- ◆ Economy has continued to grow, domestic demand has created a huge market for businesses in China.
- ◆ Companies have become more mature in terms of business models, level of transparency and corporate governance, which are converging with global standards.
- ◆ Valuation has come down to a more reasonable level and stock markets are at cyclical lows:
 - MSCI China Index dropped by 85.2% from the last high in Aug 1997.
 - S&P500 dropped by 26.1% from the last high in Mar 2000.
- ◆ Creation of exit alternatives due to opening and reforming of domestic capital market.

CURRENT PRIVATE EQUITY OPPORTUNITIES IN CHINA

As the Chinese economy continues to grow, many new opportunities for private equity which did not exist before have emerged as a result of the following developments:

2. The Private Equity Strategy of The China Fund, Inc.

INVESTMENT STRATEGY

- ◆ Seek investment opportunities not accessible in public markets.
- ◆ Focus on companies with business models that are not easily duplicable.
- ◆ Avoid entrepreneurs with grandiose 'big picture' visions.
- ◆ Concentrate on opportunities with viable exit strategies.

INVESTMENT STRATEGY

Seek investment opportunities not accessible in public markets.
Focus on companies with business models that are not easily duplicable.
Avoid entrepreneurs with grandiose 'big picture' visions.
Concentrate on opportunities with viable exit strategies.

SUPERIOR OPPORTUNITIES IN PRIVATE MARKET

- ◆ Many of the most attractive investment opportunities are only accessible to the private rather than the public market investors. As in other Asian economies, large, capital intensive, political protected companies come to public market first.
- ◆ Many well run companies which are benefiting from reform and competing with vested interests have still to access the public markets.

SUPERIOR OPPORTUNITIES IN PRIVATE MARKET

Many of the most attractive investment opportunities are only accessible to the private rather than the public market investors. As in other Asian economies, large, capital intensive, political protected companies come to public market first.

Many well run companies which are benefiting from reform and competing with vested interests have still to access the public markets.

We focus on companies with business models which are not easily found in public markets.

UNIQUE BUSINESS MODELS

- ◆ Any good business idea in China is soon copied by imitators.
 - e.g. Hong Kong announces Disney Land, Shenzhen starts negotiating with Universal Studios.
- ◆ As a result, industry sales volume can increase drastically but companies' profitability and returns are squeezed.
- ◆ Therefore, real originality and expertise are needed to ensure profitability.
 - A low cost positioning alone is insufficient.

TRANSPARENCY

- ◆ Liquidity event within 3 years to allow 'book' NAV to be marked up.
- ◆ Transparency of performance to investors can see value addition within investee companies.

Liquidity event within 3 years to allow 'book' NAV to be marked up.

Transparency of performance to investors can see value addition within investee companies.

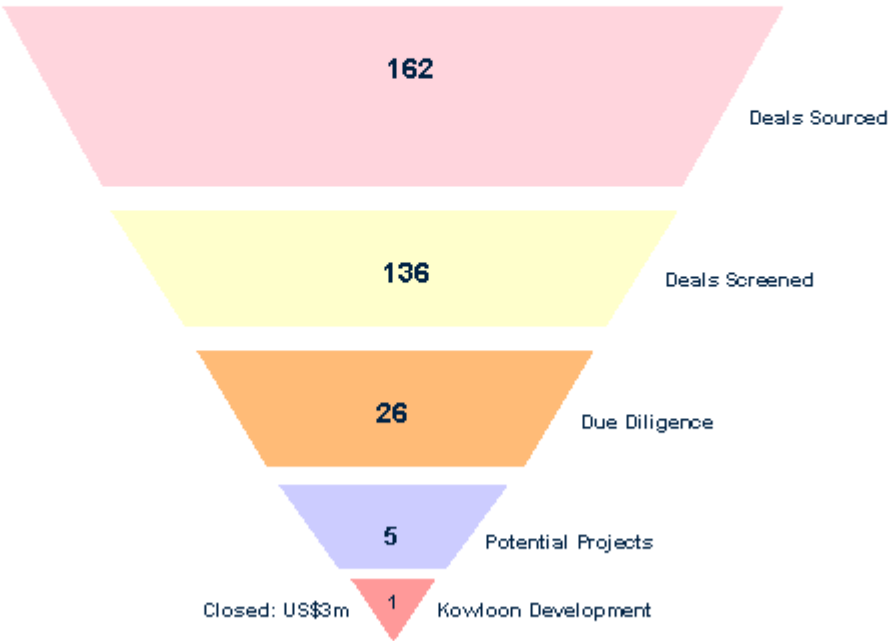

Focus on companies with transparent incremental performance not long run J curve returns from grandiose vision.

5. New Investments

Business Background

- ◆ KDCL has retail and office properties, residential development projects and some car parks in Hong Kong. Principal asset is a retail cum-office building called Pioneer Center. KDCL is listed in Hong Kong.
- ◆ Mr. Or Wai Sheung has acquired KDCL from the original major shareholders at the end of 2001.
- ◆ Mr. Or then made a general offer to the public under the Hong Kong Stock Exchange rules. Subsequently, Mr. Or had over 90% and he sought to sell down his holding to 75% in order to maintain KDCL's listing status.

Attractiveness

- ◆ Our purchase price was HK$3.58/share, same as what Mr. Or had paid. This represented 43.53% discount to NAV.
- ◆ Property price in Hong Kong has reached an attractive level, there is more upside than downside.
- ◆ KDCL manages to achieve higher rental yield compared to industry average of 6% - 8%.
- ◆ The company has been under-managed by previous management. Mr. Or's new team has credible plans to generate considerable value in the near term (e.g. there is plan to build KDCL into a more prominent property player in Hong Kong by injecting Mr. Or's property assets and making acquisitions).
- ◆ As KDCL becomes more active in the property market, the share price can better reflect its underlying asset value and thus offer upside to our investment.

Investment Made

- ◆ Total investment of US$3m for around 1.34%

Status

- ◆ Closed on March 5, 2002.
