Safe-Harbor Statement

This presentation may constitute forward-looking statements within the meaning of the Private Securities Litigation Reform Act of 1995. These forward-looking statements relate to, among others, expectations of the business environment in which the Company operates, projections of future performance, perceived opportunities in the market, potential future credit experience, and statements regarding the Company's mission and vision. These forward-looking statements are based upon current management expectations, and may, therefore, involve risks and uncertainties. The Company's actual results, performance, or achievements may differ materially from those suggested, expressed, or implied by forward-looking statements due to a wide range of factors including, but not limited to, the general business environment, interest rates, the California real estate market, competitive conditions between banks and non-bank financial services providers, regulatory changes, and other risks detailed in the Company's reports filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission, including the Annual Report on Form 10-K for the fiscal year ended June 30, 2004. Forward-looking statements are effective only as of the date that they are made and the Company assumes no obligation to update this information.

Attractive Inland Empire Market

- Here the biggest entry is No. 2 Riverside-San Bernardino, a region with more than 3 million people east of Los Angeles. In many ways, the region, known as the Inland-Empire, is the polar opposite of places like San Jose -- its economic drivers are mundane industries such as housing construction, warehousing, and diversified manufacturing

- In July, nearly one-third of the roughly 33,000 homes purchased in Southern California were in Riverside and San Bernardino counties, a record, according to DataQuick Information Systems a La Jolla firm that compiles monthly housing statistics

Source: Los Angeles Times, August 19, 2004.

- With a 2004 population of nearly 3.7 million people living in 1.1 million households, the area is growing by 2.8 percent per year, more than twice the U.S. annual population growth rate of 1.2 percent
