

Translating growth opportunities into valuable businesses

At today's webinar for analysts and investors, Aegon CEO Alex Wynaendts will focus on how opportunities in fast-growing markets are being translated into valuable businesses.

Alex Wynaendts will be joined by other Aegon executives to outline how the company is particularly well-positioned to capture growth opportunities in Brazil, Spain and Asia, as well as through its online banking business in the Netherlands. These businesses are focused on innovative and easy-to-use solutions and services that customers need in a fast-changing world.

“By investing in growth opportunities, we are securing earnings growth and capital generation for the future,” said Alex Wynaendts, CEO of Aegon. “We see attractive prospects in fast-growing markets and have the right capabilities, focus and people to turn these into valuable businesses. Equally important, these businesses will contribute significantly to our purpose of helping people achieve a lifetime of financial security in the years and decades to come.”
