DOCdata reports the sale of a MicroPerf[®] system.

Industrial Automation Integrators (IAI) B.V. in Veldhoven, a subsidiary of DOCdata N.V. in Waalwijk, will supply a Laser-Perforation-System for the application of the patented security feature MicroPerf[®] to a banknote printing company. The delivery of this system is planned for 2006.

Main contractor for this project is KBA-Giori S.A. in Lausanne, Switzerland, the marketing and sales subsidiary of König & Bauer (KBA) in Würzburg (www.kba-print.de) for the security printing market. KBA-Giori is by far the leading supplier of equipment to banknote printers. Both IAI and the manufacturer of printing presses KBA are subcontractors. The KBA- and IAI-(sub)systems are integrated into one system for the application of MicroPerf[®] at the customer's site.

The MicroPerf[®] security feature, an invention of the Swiss security printer Orell Füssli (www.ofs.ch), is now applied in Swiss, Russian and several other banknotes. It consists of a pattern of minute, laser-applied holes, which become visible when the note is held to the light.

The turnover involved with the sale of this MicroPerf[®] system together with the recently announced sale of passport systems to the Portuguese security printer Imprensa Nacional totals up to well over € 3 million. These orders clearly demonstrate IAI's position in the security printing market, where IAI offers systems for the application of security features to passports, identity cards, banknotes and other security documents.

- Industrial Automation Integrators (IAI) B.V. is a subsidiary of DOCdata N.V. specialised in the application of laser and optical technology. At present its main customers can be found in industrial activities such as security printing, packing material processing and motion picture subtitling.
- DOCdata N.V. consists of the DOCdata Media Group, providing CD's, DVD's and related services to content owners in Europe, DOCdata E-commerce Fulfillment, providing fine meshed logistics, personalised distribution, payment services and web development to concept and content owners, and IAI.
