

Qurius in talks with more parties

Zaltbommel, 6 July 2012 - Qurius announces that this week various parties from home and abroad have reported themselves to the Executive Board of Qurius and showed their interest for Qurius.

The board of Qurius welcomes this interest and carefully considers each approach seriously before deciding at which moment it will enter into further consultations with any party. Qurius adheres strictly to its strategy, to guarantee the interests of its customers also in the long term. The criteria used to evaluate each party are strict; the board considers among others the intentions of the interested party as well as the quality of the presented business case and the financial capacity. The board of Qurius continues to put the interest of customers in the first place, in harmony with that of other stakeholders. On this basis, the board of Qurius has in the meantime, entered into talks with several parties, next to the on-going talks with Prodware.

If current situation calls for it, Qurius will report further.
