Proxies

In accordance with articles 547, 547a and 548 of the Company Code, all shareholders entitled to vote can vote themselves or by proxy. To this end, a proxy template is made available to shareholders on the website www.atenor.be.

By proxy, is meant the authority given by a shareholder to a person or entity to exercise on behalf of the said shareholder all or part of their rights at the Ordinary General Meeting. Such authority can be given for one or more specified meetings or for meetings held during a specified period.

The proxy given for a meeting will be valid for successive meetings convened with the same agenda.

The proxy has the same rights as the shareholder thus represented and in particular the right to speak, to ask questions at the Ordinary General Meeting and to exercise the right to vote.

The shareholder may appoint only one person as their proxy for the Ordinary General Meeting. Notwithstanding this rule:

- A shareholder may appoint a separate proxy for each type of shares held, as well as for each securities account if they hold shares in more than one securities account
- The person qualified as a shareholder but who acts as a professional on behalf of other persons or entities, may give a proxy to each of these other persons or entities or to a third party designated by them.

The number of shareholders that a proxy holder may represent is not limited. Where a proxy holder holds proxies from several shareholders, he can cast votes for a certain shareholder differently from votes cast for another shareholder.

The appointment of a proxy by a shareholder, must be made in writing and signed by the shareholder. The notification of the proxy to the company must be made in writing. This notification may also be made electronically at info@atenor.be.

The proxy must reach the company no later than the sixth day before the date of the Ordinary General Meeting (20 April 2019)

Only proxies submitted by shareholders who meet the admission formalities listed above qualify for calculating the quorum and majority rules.

The proxy holder will vote in accordance with the voting instructions given by the shareholder. He shall keep a record of the voting instructions for a period of at least one year and confirm, at the request of the shareholder, that the voting instructions have been carried out.

In case of potential conflicts of interest between the shareholder and the proxy they have appointed:

- the proxy holder must disclose the specific facts that are relevant to allow the shareholder to assess the risk that the proxy might pursue any interest other than the interest of the shareholder;
- the proxy holder is authorized to exercise voting rights on behalf of the shareholder only if he has specific voting instructions for each topic on the agenda.

For the purposes of this section, a conflict of interest arises where, in particular, the proxy holder:

- is the company itself or an entity controlled by it, a shareholder that controls the company or is another entity controlled by such a shareholder;
- is a member of the Board of Directors, management bodies of the company or a shareholder who controls it or a controlled entity referred to above;
- is an employee or auditor of the company, or of the shareholder controlling it or a controlled entity referred to above;

- has a parental relationship with a person referred to above or is the spouse or legal cohabitant of such a person or relative of such a person.

Regarding the proxies in case of the addition of subjects to the agenda in accordance with article 533b of the Company Code, reference is made to the section "Inclusion of topics in the agenda" above.
