WinStreak Releases New Version of Casino Software

Vancouver, BC, September 2, 1998 – IGN Internet Global Network Inc. (NASDAQ OTC BB – IGNIF; VSE – IGN) is pleased to announce that its operating subsidiary, WinStreak, has launched its latest gaming software, Casinos of the World version 2.3. The new software features roulette as well as new keno and slot games. The two new single-line slots complement the only eight-line slots on the Internet.

Casinos of the World's software version 2.3 features a variety of upgrades including real casino sounds, enhanced graphics and accelerated game speed. Progressive jackpots on the slot, video poker and keno games continue to increase as game traffic builds, just as in land-based casinos. Casinos of the World has the largest progressive jackpots on the Internet. The gameshell also supports a "Broadcast Window", whereby casino event messages and advertisements can be broadcast to casino users in real-time as they play the casino games online, to inform and entertain. This feature enhances revenue possibilities for WinStreak, as advertisers pay to place ads in the broadcast window. Finally, the software features "push technology", whereby updated game information, new games and advertisements are automatically sent to the user's computer each time the user logs-on to play the games.

Users can download the new software from the Casinos of the World web-site (www.casinosoftheworld.com), or order a CD-ROM copy directly from WinStreak. CD-ROM copies of the new software have been distributed to all previously registered users of Casinos of the World.

WinStreak is focusing its marketing efforts toward attracting gaming customers in European and Asian markets, due to the legal uncertainty relating to online gaming in the US. To that end, the Company will continually add new software and web-site features designed to appeal to non-North American customers. These features will include foreign language voices and help screens, as well as complete translations of the web-site into various foreign languages. Casinos of the World currently has registered users from 140 different countries. Once legal issues in the US have been resolved, the Company may again aggressively target the US market.

IGN Internet Global Network Inc. is developing a variety of entertainment, advertising, shopping, financial and broadcasting service "channels" on the World Wide Web, including WinStreak (www.winstreak.com), IGN's on-line gaming and sports contests channel. WinStreak's Casinos of the World gaming software has won numerous industry awards, including seven consecutive months of 'Top-10 Sites' at Gambling.com, a '5 Aces award', and Game Royal's highest honor, its '5 Cards award'.

On behalf of the Board of Directors,
