WHITE METAL UNCOVERS DIATREMES IN HISTORICAL WORK ON THE MANITOUWADGE PGE PROPERTY

December 9, 2014

Thunder Bay, Ontario: White Metal Resources Corp. (TSX-V: WHM) ("White Metal" or the "Company") would like to report that while researching historical work completed on the Manitouwadge PGE property the Company uncovered diamond drilling that intersected diatreme breccia units. Two drill holes completed by Noranda Inc (Geco Division) during 1987 while exploring for copper-zinc mineralization intersected the diatreme breccia. Drill hole S-325 intersected numerous 1 to 5m thick intervals of diatreme material over 31m at approximately 125m vertically below surface. Hole S-334 intersected 2 areas with numerous intervals of diatreme breccia material; 31.5m at approximately 175m vertically below surface and the second measuring 89m (0.3 to 34m individual intervals) at approximately 300m vertically below surface. All intervals represent core length. Drill hole S-334 is situated at the edge of a high magnetic response roughly 300 x 500m in size while drill hole S-325 located approximately 800m south east of S-334 is situated in a magnetic low response.

No core is available from the diamond drill holes however White Metal plans to further investigate the diatremes to determine their potential to host economic metal and/or diamond potential. The Manitouwadge PGE property is located just west of the Kapuskasing Structure, a deep north east oriented structural corridor that extends from the James Bay Lowlands south west to Lake Superior. White Metal is currently seeking a partner to advance this project.

White Metal is a junior exploration company exploring in Canada and currently has issued and outstanding share capital of 18,916,076 common shares.
