CVR Medical Retains DuVal & Associates to Navigate FDA Process

VANCOUVER, BC / February 6, 2017 / CVR Medical Corp. (TSX.V:CVM) (FRANKFURT: B3BN) (OTCQB: CRRVF) ("CVR Medical") has retained the services of DuVal & Associates, P.A., a Minneapolis-based, regulatory law firm focused on counsel within the medical device and pharmaceutical industries. In addition to its strategic advisory role, DuVal & Associates will represent CVR throughout the process of FDA approvals and clearances for its “Carotid Stenotic Scan (CSS)” device.

With over thirteen years of experience working on behalf of clients seeking FDA clearances and approvals, DuVal & Associates has established a worldwide reputation for streamlining regulatory procedures and right-sizing FDA’s demand for data. Their expertise in managing submissions, including formal filings, quantitative and qualitative trial data analysis, and in-person negotiations between the FDA and client will guide CVR with best practices for preparation and efficiency. CVR Medical Chief Operating Officer Tony Robinson expresses confidence in the results the partnership will help achieve, stating, “As we approach the point of FDA submissions for the CSS, we feel our position could not be stronger with regard to our legal regulatory support. Mark DuVal and his staff have an incredible track record of success, and we look forward to having their familiarity with and insight into this process.”

Mark DuVal, President and founder of DuVal & Associates, states, “We are truly excited to be working with CVR. We always embrace the challenge of helping companies meet FDA requirements at the lowest cost and fastest times possible. As an organization, we are meeting face to face with representatives from the FDA more often than any other group in the country, and we do it to ensure great products like [the CSS] become available to patients and their physicians as soon possible.”
