India is a highly promising market, offering substantial growth opportunities for Marzocchi’s core business products, and collaboration with an established partner such as Dantal Hydraulics Private Limited enables us to operate more efficiently and in closer proximity to customers.

We expect to see benefits already in the second half of the year, also supported by the establishment of a local warehouse that will allow us to respond promptly to market demand.

Thanks to distinctive technology, also demonstrated by the recent patent for Elika bi-directional pumps, and the ability to develop tailored solutions for customers, we continue to reinforce Marzocchi Pompe’s presence in international markets, which already generate more than two-thirds of the Group’s revenue.

Our strategy, grounded in a direct presence in the most relevant Countries in the market in which we operate, such as the United States, China and India, is aimed at supporting sound and enduring growth in the years ahead.”
