Silverdale Hills LP

In July 2024, the Silverdale Hills LP submitted a subdivision and rezoning application to the City of Mission to subdivide approximately 50 acres of land within the Loftus Village Project. In July 2024, the Silverdale Hills LP entered into servicing agreements with the City of Mission to construct and install the first phase of public services, facilities, and utilities to support a 50-acre development within the Loftus Village Project lands. In June 2024 the Silverdale Hills LP obtained a letter of credit facility up to a maximum of $30,000 as security to these servicing agreements with the City of Mission. In July 2024 and October 2025, the Silverdale Hills LP obtained development agreement surety bond facilities as additional security for these servicing agreements with the City of Mission and the first townhome development in the Loftus Village Project. In December 2025, the Silverdale Hills LP increased the surety bond facilities to a maximum of $50,842. Competitive Conditions

Madison competes for suitable real property investments with other real estate investment companies, trusts, pension funds and other institutional investors. Many of these investors have greater financial resources than Madison. An increase in the availability of investment capital and an increase in demand for real property investments would likely result in increased competition for real property investments, thereby increasing purchase prices and reducing the yields from such investments.

Employees

Madison had 12 full-time employees as at March 11, 2026.

RISK FACTORS

The real estate industry is subject to various operating risks. In evaluating Madison and its business, an investor should consider carefully the following risk factors in addition to the other information contained herein.

Global Market, Economic and Geopolitical Risks

Adverse Canadian and global market, economic and political conditions, general global economic uncertainty, and unexpected or ongoing geopolitical events, could have a material adverse effect on Madison's business, results of operations and financial condition with the potential to impact, among others: (i) the value of Madison's properties; (ii) the availability or the terms of financing that Madison have or may anticipate utilizing; (iii) Madison's ability to make principal and interest payments on, or refinance, any outstanding debt when due; (iv) the occupancy rates in Madison's properties; and (v) the ability of our tenants to enter into new leasing transactions or to satisfy rental payments under existing leases. Continued concerns about the uncertainty over whether the economy will be adversely affected by geopolitical events, trade conflicts between the United States and its trading partners, including Canada, and the imposition of tariffs or other trade protection measures by either country may contribute to increased market volatility and weakened business and consumer confidence, could affect the financial condition of our tenants and may have a material adverse effect on our business, financial condition, cash flows and results of operations and could cause the market value of the Company's shares to decline.

Real Estate Industry

Investment properties are subject to varying degrees of risk. Such risks include changes in general economic conditions (such as the availability and cost of mortgage funds), local conditions (such as an over-supply of space or a reduction in demand for real estate in the area), the attractiveness of the properties to tenants, competition from others with available space and the ability of Madison to provide adequate maintenance at an economic cost.

Certain significant expenditures, including property taxes, maintenance costs, mortgage payments, insurance costs and related charges, must be made regardless of whether a property is producing sufficient income to cover such expenses. Madison's real estate properties are subject to mortgages that require ongoing debt payments and repayments of outstanding amounts on maturity. If Madison is unable or unwilling to make mortgage repayments on any property, losses could be sustained as a result of the lenders exercising their rights of foreclosure or sale.

Real estate is relatively illiquid. Such illiquidity will tend to limit Madison's ability to vary its portfolio promptly in response to changing economic or investment conditions. Financial difficulties of other property owners resulting in distress sales may further depress real estate values in many of the markets in which Madison operates.

Madison manages these risks through ownership of good quality properties combined with a diverse tenant base. As at December 31, 2025, no one commercial tenant accounted for more than 9.86% (December 31, 2024 – 10.54%) of the commercial rental revenue of Madison and lease maturities are staggered such that as at December 31, 2025, no more than 30.88% (December 31, 2024 – 37.27%) of the commercial rental space was subject to renewal in any one year.

Revenue-Producing Properties

Madison's revenue-producing properties generate income through rental receipts from tenants. Upon the expiry of any lease, there is no assurance that the lease will be renewed or the tenant replaced. The terms of any subsequent lease may be less favourable to Madison than the existing lease. Furthermore, at any time, a tenant of Madison's properties may seek the protection of bankruptcy, insolvency or similar laws which could result in the rejection and termination of such tenant's lease and a resultant reduction in cash flow available to Madison.

The Company also has interests in multi-family rental properties. In addition to risks similar to commercial income properties, apartments are typically subject to greater government regulations.

Fluctuations in Real Estate Values

The real estate industry is subject to variability and fluctuations in real estate values. The Company has elected to report its investment properties at fair value. Fair value represents the amount at which the properties could be exchanged between a knowledgeable and willing buyer and seller in an arm's length transaction at the date of valuation. Adjustments will be made to the fair values when changes in the underlying valuation assumptions occur.

Ongoing geopolitical events in the world have caused global economic disruption. This has increased the risk and uncertainty surrounding valuation estimates due to limited market activity for comparable transactions and the resulting impact on the Company's cash flows from investment properties. Downturns in the real estate market could negatively impact the fair values of the Company's investment properties.

Risks Associated with Residential Development Activities

There are a variety of risks associated with the Company's residential development activities such as municipal regulatory requirements and environmental considerations that affect the approval for planning, subdivision and use of land. During this period, market conditions may change dramatically. Other risks include rising costs of construction, contractual risk, shortage of experienced labour in the construction industry, reduced demand for new residential units, changes in regulations and taxes, and general market risk. The Company is also subject to risk that the actual performance of development properties acquired by the Company may be materially different from the assumptions made by management of the Company.

when purchasing the properties or initiating development. The Company manages the risks associated with its development activities by entering into joint ventures with experienced developers with a long history of successful development in Metro Vancouver.

Interest Rate Fluctuations

Madison's capital structure involves risks primarily associated with leverage and interest rates. Madison's financing includes some indebtedness with interest rates set on a floating rate basis which could result in fluctuations in Madison's cost of borrowing.

Madison has also mitigated interest rate risk by refinancing the majority of its debt on investment properties (mortgage loans, excluding lease liabilities) at fixed rates and maintaining a balanced maturity schedule. The Company has not experienced any difficulties in renewing mortgages as they have become due. The Company also mitigates interest rate risk by entering into interest rate swaps. The Company anticipates holding the mortgages and interest rate swap contracts until maturity. The Company also has a floating rate line of credit that could lead to fluctuations in borrowing costs.

The Company's equity accounted joint venture investments, the Silverdale Hills LP and the Barnet LP, have floating rate financing agreements and instruments. This could lead to fluctuations in borrowing costs, negatively impacting the Company's equity earnings. Additionally, it may necessitate further equity contributions to the joint ventures, adversely affecting Madison's cash flows.

Environmental Matters and Climate Change Risk

As an owner of investment properties, Madison is subject to various Canadian federal, provincial, and municipal laws relating to environmental matters. Such laws provide that Madison could be liable for costs of removal and remediation of certain hazardous substances or wastes released or deposited on or in its properties or disposed of at other locations. The failure to remove or remediate such substances, if any, could adversely affect Madison's ability to sell such real estate or pledge real estate as collateral for borrowing. In addition, such a situation could potentially result in claims against Madison. Madison is not aware of any material pending or threatened investigations or actions by environmental regulatory authorities in connection with any of its properties or any material pending or threatened claims relating to environmental conditions at its properties. It is also possible that asbestos containing material ("ACM") and polychlorinated biphenyls ("PCB") in light fixtures may be present at some properties. Madison is aware that certain of its properties contain ACM or PCBs, and it may be present in other properties, but it believes that any future removal or disposal costs will not be material. However, there can be no assurance as to the ultimate quantum of any such costs.

Madison has formal procedures to review and monitor environmental exposure on an ongoing basis and conducts thorough environmental due diligence as part of its acquisition process. Madison has made and will continue to make the necessary capital expenditures to ensure compliance with environmental laws and regulations. Environmental laws and regulations can change at any time and Madison may become subject to more stringent environmental laws and regulations in the future. Compliance with more stringent environmental laws and regulations could have a material adverse effect on Madison's business, financial condition and results of operations.

Natural disasters and severe weather such as floods, blizzards and rising temperatures may result in damage to the Company's properties. The extent of Madison's casualty losses and loss in operating income in connection with such events is a function of the severity of the event and the total amount of exposure in the affected area. Madison is also exposed to risks associated with inclement winter weather, including increased need for maintenance and repair of its buildings. In addition, climate change, to the extent it causes changes in weather patterns, could have effects on the Company's business by increasing the cost of property insurance, and/or energy at the properties. As a result, the consequences of natural disasters, severe weather and climate change could negatively affect the results of operations and financial condition of Madison.

General Uninsured Losses

Madison carries comprehensive general liability, fire, flood, extended coverage and rental loss insurance with policy specifications, limits and deductibles customarily carried for similar properties. There are, however, certain types of risks (generally of a catastrophic nature such as from wars or environmental contamination) which are either uninsurable or not insurable on an economic basis. Madison currently has insurance for flood and earthquake risks, subject to certain policy limits, deductibles, and self-insurance arrangements, and will continue to carry such insurance so long as it is economical to do so. Should an uninsured or underinsured loss occur, Madison could lose its investment in, and anticipated profits and cash flows from, one or more of its properties, while still being obligated to repay any recourse mortgage indebtedness on such properties. If a loss occurs in excess of insured limits, Madison could lose all or part of its investment in, and anticipated profits and cash flows from such property.

Joint Ventures and Co-ownerships

The Company participates in joint ventures, partnerships and similar arrangements that may involve risks and uncertainties not present absent third-party involvement, including, but not limited to, Madison's dependency on partners, co-tenants or co-venturers that are not under the Company's control and that might become bankrupt or otherwise fail to fund their share of required capital contributions, or suffer reputational damage that could have an adverse impact on the Company. Additionally, the Company's partners might at any time have economic or other business interests or goals that are different than or inconsistent with those of Madison, and the Company may be required to take actions that are in the interest of the partners collectively, but not in Madison's sole best interests. Accordingly, Madison may not be able to favourably resolve issues with respect to such decisions, or the Company could become engaged in a dispute with any of them that might affect its ability to operate the business or assets in question.

Residential Rental Business Risks

Demand for residential rentals fluctuates with changes in general market and economic conditions, such as consumer confidence, employment levels, financing availability for home buyers, interest rates, demographic trends, immigration levels and housing supply and demand. As a landlord of rental apartments, the Company faces risks inherent in the multi-family rental business. These include fluctuations in occupancy levels, individual credit risk, reputation risk, tenant privacy concerns, potential changes to rent control regulations, increases in operating costs (such as utilities), and increased property taxes. Additionally, certain operating costs, such as property maintenance, repairs, insurance, and property taxes, are not directly recoverable from tenants, which can significantly impact the financial performance of the property. In British Columbia, multi-family rental properties are subject to rent control legislation, which can restrict rent increases above an annually prescribed guideline, require sufficient notice before rent increases, or limit the frequency of rent increases. The issue of affordable housing and related policies is becoming increasingly prominent at various government levels. The Company may face risks from new or amended rent control legislation in its operating markets, potentially impacting operations and incurring costs that may not be fully recoverable from tenant rents. Madison mitigates these risks by maintaining a portfolio of well-located managed properties.

Geographic Concentration

Madison currently carries on the majority of its business in British Columbia, and predominantly Metro Vancouver. However, the Company has some geographic diversification with properties located in Alberta and Ontario. An economic downturn in any of these markets could cause leasing rates to decline, which could have a material adverse effect on the business and negatively affect the fair value of the Company's properties in these markets, the results of operations and financial condition of Madison.

Tax Appeals

The Company and certain subsidiaries received tax notices of reassessments from the Canada Revenue Agency ("CRA") and Alberta Tax and Revenue Administration ("ATRA"), denying the use of certain losses, deductions and tax credits arising from prior years. The Company and its subsidiaries filed notice of objections and appeals to the reassessments with the CRA and ATRA.

The appeal for one of the companies, Madison Pacific Properties Inc. ("MPP") was heard by the Tax Court of Canada ("TCC"). In December 2023, the TCC ruled in favor of the CRA, denying MPP the ability to use certain carryforward losses. MPP appealed the TCC decision to the Federal Court of Appeal ("FCA") in January 2025 with the FCA dismissing MPP's appeal. In March 2025, MPP filed an application to the Supreme Court of Canada ("SCC") seeking leave to appeal the FCA decision. In September 2025, the SCC dismissed MPP's leave application. This decision marked the conclusion of the legal process for MPP's appeal.

The Company has recorded a full provision of $51,450 in the year ended August 31, 2024 against the carrying value of the deposits of $19,270, deferred tax assets related to unused carryforward amounts and for the liability for estimated awarded legal costs for the MPP reassessment and two other reassessed subsidiaries. During the year ended August 31, 2024, the Company paid additional related cash tax deposits of $31,310 to the CRA and ATRA. As at August 31, 2024, the Company had paid a total of $50,580 in cash deposits to the CRA and ATRA.

The Company is in the process of formalizing an agreement with the CRA under which the Company will no longer pursue remaining tax appeals and the CRA will provide interest relief for the periods which undue delay by the CRA occurred in respect of the administration of the Company's matters. As at March 11, 2026, the Company and the CRA have agreed in principle on the specific period for which interest relief will be granted. However, the amount of interest relief and amount to be refunded is still pending final determination and approval.

Dividends

Madison initiated a formal dividend policy in 2007. An annual dividend of $0.105 per share is payable to each shareholder semi-annually. Dividends were paid under this policy twice a year from 2008 to 2025. The payment of dividends is subject to available cash resources.

In the three most recently completed financial years, the Company has declared one special dividend of $0.34 per share in May 2025.

All dividends paid by the Company are eligible dividends unless the Company indicates otherwise.
