

DualEx Surrenders Bouhajla Permit

/NOT FOR DISTRIBUTION TO UNITED STATES NEWSWIRE SERVICES OR FOR DISSEMINATION IN THE UNITED STATES/

CALGARY, June 13, 2016 /CNW/ - DualEx Energy International Inc. ("DualEx" or the "Company") (TSX-V: DXE) today announced that it has been advised by the Tunisian Department of Energy that any further extensions to the primary term of the Bouhajla Permit (the "Permit") will not be granted. As a result, and due to there being insufficient time to conduct the required work program to move the Permit into the next term, the Company has advised the Department that it is surrendering the Permit, which was due to reach the end of its primary term on August 7, 2016. The Company has been seeking a joint venture partner to participate in the next stage of exploration on the Permit, however, due to the severe downturn in the international oil and gas exploration sector, these efforts have been unsuccessful.

The Company continues to evaluate and pursue projects in Western Canada, and will advise shareholders when material progress has been made in this regard.
