RESAAS Expands Enterprise Data Ecosystem with Microsoft Fabric and Power BI Integration

July 9, 2026 – Vancouver, BC – RESAAS Services Inc. (“RESAAS” or “the Company”) (TSX-V: RSS, OTC: RSASF), a leading provider of technology solutions for the real estate industry, today announced a new integration with Microsoft Fabric and Power BI, further expanding RESAAS’s growing enterprise data ecosystem and enabling customers to seamlessly incorporate RESAAS’s proprietary commercial real estate data into one of the world’s leading business intelligence platforms.

The integration enables RESAAS customers to combine unique real-time residential and commercial real estate data with internal and third-party data sources, creating richer reporting, analytics and executive dashboards through Microsoft Fabric and Power BI.

RESAAS’s enterprise and institutional real estate customers contribute and access proprietary market data that is unavailable elsewhere, creating a valuable and growing network of unique commercial real estate intelligence.

Many of these organizations already rely on Microsoft Fabric and Power BI to support strategic planning, portfolio management and data-driven decision-making. The new integration allows customers to incorporate RESAAS data directly into their existing analytics environments, accelerating insight while preserving established reporting workflows.

“Our vision is to make high-quality commercial real estate data available wherever our customers make critical decisions,” said Tom Rossiter, Chief Executive Officer of RESAAS. “Making valuable enterprise data available through Microsoft Fabric and Power BI is a natural extension of RESAAS’s data strategy.”

Microsoft’s integration enhances RESAAS’s enterprise data ecosystem which includes:

- SAP (ETR: SAP) PartnerEdge Open Ecosystem
- Snowflake (NYSE: SNOW) AI Data Cloud
- Databricks Data & AI Platform

RESAAS has a longstanding relationship with Microsoft (NASDAQ: MSFT). The RESAAS technology platform is built on Microsoft Azure Cloud, RESAAS is a member of Microsoft Founders Hub, and Microsoft has awarded RESAAS US$150,000 for Cloud and OpenAI compute to accelerate product development and RESAAS AI innovation.
