Otú Centro

In 2020, the Company entered into a definitive agreement with, inter alia, Bullet Holding Corp. (“Bullet”), a private company, pursuant to which the Company acquired in 2021 a 100% interest in a gold mining project in Colombia known as the Otú Centro Project.

Exploration Work

From January 2021 until February 2022, the Company mapped and collected samples of mineralized veins in La Aurora-Quintanillo, a target where Bullet had previously carried out mapping and sampling of tunnels that were then in production.

La Aurora-Quintanillo is located immediately west of the Otú Fault, which is a sinister strike-slip fault system with an extension of more than 80km and several associated occurrences, including Gran Colombia Gold's El Silencio mine (approximately 20km to the south) and Soma Gold's El Limon mine (approximately 20km to the north).

During May and December 2021, ground geophysics works were carried out on the La Aurora, Quintanillo, and Aparecida targets, using four methods (Spontaneous Potential - SP, Electrical Resistivity Profiling - ERP, Vertical Electrical Sounding - VES, and Electrical Resistivity Tomography -

On July 15, 2021, the contracting of drilling services for the Otú Centro Project to be carried out by SERVIMINAS was announced. A contract was signed for 4,000 meters, with the possibility to extend up to 10,000 meters. This drilling started in the first week of August and ended in early January 2022. Management of the Company believes that it does not have sufficient funds to pay its ongoing general and administrative expenses, to pursue exploration and to meet its liabilities, obligations and existing commitments for the ensuing 12 months as they become due. In assessing whether the going concern assumption is appropriate, management takes into account all available information about the future, which is at least, but not limited to, 12 months from the end of the reporting period. The Company's ability to continue future operations beyond December 31, 2023 and meet its remaining liabilities is dependent on management's ability to secure additional financing in the future, which may be completed in a number of ways, including, but not limited to, the issuance of debt or equity instruments. Management will pursue such additional sources of financing when required.

While management has been successful in securing financing in the past, there can be no assurance that it will be able to do so in the future or that these sources of funding or initiatives will be available to the Company or that they will be available on terms which are acceptable to the Company. If management is unable to obtain new funding, the Company may be unable to continue its operations, and amounts eventually realized for assets might be less than amounts reflected in these consolidated financial statements.

Management's Discussion and Analysis

For the three and nine months ended September 30, 2023 and 2022

Management's responsibility for financial information and critical accounting estimates

The Company's consolidated financial statements are the responsibility of management. The consolidated financial statements were prepared by the Company's management in accordance with IFRS. A description of the Company's significant accounting policies can be found in Note 2 of the Company's 2022 annual consolidated financial statements.

When preparing the consolidated financial statements, management undertakes a number of judgments, estimates and assumptions about recognition and measurement of assets, liabilities, income, and expenses. The actual results are likely to differ from the judgments, estimates, and assumptions made by management, and will seldom equal the estimated results. Information about the significant judgments, estimates and assumptions that have the most significant effect on the recognition and measurement of assets, liabilities, income, and expenses are discussed in Note 3 of the Company's 2022 annual consolidated financial statements.

Financial instruments

The Company considers managing risk as being an integral part of its development and diversification strategies. The Company uses a proactive and rigorous approach for the management of the financial risks to which it is exposed. The Company's management manages financial risks. The Company focuses on actively securing short to medium term cash flows by minimizing exposure to financial markets.

The Company does not enter into financial instrument agreements, including derivative financial instruments, for speculative purposes.

The Company's most significant financial risk exposure and its financial risk management policies are discussed in Note 8 of the consolidated financial statements for the nine months ended September 30, 2023 and 2022.

Risk factors

The Company is exposed to a number of risks, which even a combination of careful evaluation, experience and knowledge may not eliminate. The following outlines certain risk factors specific to the Company. These risk factors could materially affect the Company's future results and could cause actual events to differ materially from those described in forward-looking information relating to the Company.

Nature of Mineral Exploration and Mining

The Company does not hold any interest in a mining property in production. The Company's viability and potential for success lie in its ability to complete exploration to develop, exploit and generate revenue out of mineral deposits. The exploration and development of mineral deposits involves significant financial risks over a significant period of time which even a combination of careful evaluation, experience and knowledge may not eliminate.

While discovery of a mine can lead to substantial rewards, few properties which are explored are ultimately developed into producing mines. Major expenses may be required to establish reserves by drilling and to construct mining and processing facilities at a site. It is impossible to ensure that any exploration programs on the Company's properties will result in a profitable commercial mining operation.

The operations of the Company will be subject to all of the hazards and risks normally associated to exploration and development of mineral properties, any of which can result in damage to life or property, environmental damage and possible legal liability. While the Company may obtain insurance against certain risks in such amounts as it considers adequate, the nature of these risks is such that liabilities could exceed policy limits or could be excluded from coverage. There are also risks against which the Company cannot insure or against which it may elect not to insure. The potential costs which could be associated with any liabilities not covered or in excess of insurance coverage or in compliance with applicable laws and regulations may cause substantial delays and require significant capital outlays, adversely affecting the future earnings and competitive position of the Company and, potentially, its financial position.

Whether a mineral deposit will be commercially viable depends on a number of factors, some of which are the particular attributes of a deposit, such as its size and grade, proximity to infrastructure, financing costs and government regulations, including regulations relating to prices, taxes and royalties, infrastructures, land use, importing and exporting and environmental protection. The effect of these factors cannot be accurately predicted, but the combination of these factors may result in the Company not receiving an adequate return on capital.

Financing Risks

The Company has limited financial resources, and there is no assurance that additional funding will be available to it for further exploration work or the development of its projects or to fulfill its obligations under applicable agreements. Although the Company has been successful in the past in obtaining financing through the sale of equity securities, there can be no assurance that the Company will be able to obtain adequate financing in the future or that terms of the financing will be favorable. Failure to obtain such additional financing could result in delay or indefinite postponement of further exploration and development of the property interests of the Company, with possible dilution or loss of such interests.

No Assurance of Title

The acquisition of titles to mineral projects is a detailed and time-consuming process. Although the Company takes precautions to ensure that property agreements are valid and legally binding, and that title of the property can be transferred and properly recorded by obtaining a legal opinion from local counsel, there can be no assurance that such title will ultimately be secured. Furthermore, there is no assurance that the interest of the Company in its properties may not be challenged or impugned.

Infrastructure

Mining, processing, development and exploration activities depend, to one degree or another, on adequate infrastructure. Reliable roads, bridges, power sources and water supply are important determinants, which affect capital and operating costs. Unusual or infrequent weather phenomena, sabotage, community, government or other interference in the maintenance or provision of such infrastructure could adversely affect the Company's operations, financial condition and results of operations. Disruptions in the supply of products and services required for the Company's activities in any of the jurisdictions in which it operates would also adversely affect its business, results of operations and financial condition.

Fluctuating Mineral Prices

The mining industry is heavily dependent upon the market price of the metals or minerals being mined. There is no assurance that, even if commercial quantities of mineral resources are discovered, a profitable market will exist for the sale of the same. There can be no assurance that mineral prices will be such that the Company's properties can be mined at a profit. Factors beyond the control of the Company may affect the marketability of any minerals discovered. The prices of many base and precious metals have experienced volatile and significant price movements over short periods of time and are affected by numerous factors beyond the control of the Company.

No Significant Revenues

To date, the Company has not recorded any revenues, other than interest and investment income, and the Company has no dividend record. The Company has not commenced commercial production on any properties. There can be no assurance that significant losses will not occur in the near future or that the Company will be profitable in the future. There can be no assurance that the Company will generate any revenues or achieve profitability.

Management's Discussion and Analysis

For the three and nine months ended September 30, 2023 and 2022

Dilution and Future Sale of Common Shares

The Company may issue additional shares in the future, which would dilute current shareholder holdings. The Company's articles of incorporation permit, among other things, the issuance of an unlimited number of common shares and the interests of the holders of the Company's common shares may be diluted thereby.

Conflicts of Interest

The directors and officers of the Company may serve as directors and/or officers of other public resource companies or have significant shareholdings in other public resource companies. Situations may arise in connection with potential acquisitions and investments where the other interests of these directors and officers may conflict with the interests of the Company. In the event that such a conflict of interest arises at a meeting of the directors of the Company, a director is required by the Canada Business Corporations Act to disclose the conflict of interest and abstain from voting on the matter.

Environmental Regulations

The operations of the Company are subject to environmental regulations promulgated by government agencies from time to time. Environmental legislation provides for restrictions and prohibitions on spills, release or emissions of various substances produced in association with certain mining industry operations. A breach of such legislation may result in the imposition of fines and penalties. In addition, certain types of operations require the submission and approval of environmental impact assessments. Environmental legislation is evolving toward stricter standards, and enforcement, fines and penalties for non-compliance are becoming more stringent.

Dependence on Key Personnel

The Company is dependent on a relatively small number of key employees or consultants, the loss of any of whom could have an adverse effect on its operations. The Company does not currently have key person insurance on these individuals.

Anti-corruption Laws

The Company is required to comply with the Corruption of Foreign Public Officials Act (Canada), which has recently seen an increase in both the frequency of enforcement and severity of penalties. Although the Company's code of conduct mandates compliance with anti-corruption laws, there can be no assurance that the Company's internal control policies and procedures will always protect the Company from recklessness, fraudulent behavior, dishonesty or other inappropriate acts. Violation or alleged violation of anti-corruption laws could lead to civil and criminal fines and penalties, reputational damage and other consequences that may materially adversely affect the Company's financial condition and results of operation.

Potential Volatility of Share Price

There can be no assurance that an active trading market for the Company's common shares will be sustained. The market price of the Company's common shares is volatile and could be subject to wide fluctuations due to a number of factors, including but not limited to: actual or anticipated fluctuations in the Company's results of operations; changes in estimates of the Company's future results of operations by management or securities analysts; introduction of new products or services by the Company or its competitors; and general industry changes. In addition, the financial markets have in the past experienced significant price and value fluctuations that have particularly affected the market prices of equity securities of many venture and mining issuers and that sometimes have been unrelated to the operating performance of these companies. Broad market fluctuations, as well as economic conditions generally and in the mining industry specifically, may adversely affect the market price of the Company's shares.

Management's Discussion and Analysis

For the three and nine months ended September 30, 2023 and 2022

Use of and Reliance on Experts Outside Canada

The Company uses and relies upon a number of legal, financial and industry experts outside of Canada as required given its corporate and operational structure. Some of these industry professionals may not be subject to equivalent educational requirements, regulations, and rules of professional conduct or standards of care as they would be in Canada. The Company manages this risk through the use of reputable experts and review of past performance. In addition, the Company uses, where possible, experts and local advisers linked with firms also operating in Canada to provide any required support.

Uninsurable Risks

Development and production operations on mineral properties involve numerous risks, including unexpected or unusual geological operating conditions, rock bursts, cave-ins, fires, floods, earthquakes and other environmental occurrences. It is not always possible to obtain insurance against all such risks and the Company may decide not to insure against certain risks as a result of high premiums or other reasons. Should such liabilities arise, they could have an adverse impact on the Company's results of operations and financial condition and could cause a decline in the value of the Company's common shares. The Company does not intend to maintain insurance against environmental risks.
