PORTFOLIO MANAGER

The portfolio favours companies with management who have a proven track record of managing through extreme cycles. I focus on companies with entrenched market positions where this strength and solid management of the company is exhibited in the ability to grow market share while maintaining pricing power. Typically these companies are likely to emerge stronger after any downturn. I pay particular attention to balance sheet strength and hence tend to hold companies that have low leverage. I do acknowledge top-down factors to portfolio construction, however stocks need to fit criteria and hence the focus remains from a bottom-up perspective. Since understanding a company in isolation is insufficient, I also consider the long term trends in an industry and the market, which can deliver a tangible investment advantage. The Fund typically holds between 30-70 stocks and tends to be fairly concentrated. I control risk in a number of ways such as holding a widely diversified portfolio of stocks invested across the Asian region, avoiding companies without sustainable growth models, weak management and corporate governance.

I continue to remain positive on the prospects of the Asia region. Signs of improvement in the key economies of the US, Europe and Japan bodes well for Asian exports. China's new leadership is focusing on expanding domestic demand and speeding up the transformation of the country's economic growth model, as communicated in the Third Plenum meeting held in November. I believe it will improve the quality and sustainability of Chinese growth. Although the economy will show a gradual slowdown, the rate of growth should remain higher than developed markets. Valuations in Asia are at attractive levels versus history as well as versus global developed markets. Asia's fundamentals continue to be strong and there are no major macroeconomic concerns. Within Asia, the north (China, Korea, Taiwan and Hong Kong) look more attractive than the south, both in terms of valuation and growth outlook. Although growth remains strong in most ASEAN countries this year, the pace of growth is expected to be slower than it was last year.

GLOSSARY

NAV

The total value of a company's assets less the total value of its liabilities is its net asset value (NAV). For valuation purposes it is common to divide net assets by the number of shares in issue to give the net assets per share. NAV calculations can include or exclude current financial year income. For the purposes of this factsheet, they are valued with assets including income and costs and with debt valued at the market.

DISCOUNT

If the share price of an investment company is lower than the net asset value (NAV) per share, the company is said to be trading at a discount. The discount is shown as a percentage of the NAV.

GEARING

Investment trusts have the ability to borrow additional money to invest, known as gearing. The trust has the ability to use bank loans, bank overdrafts and Contracts for Difference (CFDs) to increase its exposure to stocks. CFDs are used as a way of gaining exposure to the price movements of shares without buying the underlying shares directly.

OVERWEIGHT/UNDERWEIGHT

If a stock is deemed "overweight" this indicates that the portfolio has a higher exposure to a stock compared to its benchmark. If a stock is deemed "underweight" this indicates that portfolio has a lower exposure to a stock compared to its benchmark.

TOP 10 INVESTMENTS

The ten largest investments by value are valued at fair value and shown as a percentage of total assets less current liabilities, excluding loans.

SECTOR/GEOGRAPHICAL BREAKDOWNS

These are expressed as a percentage of total portfolio and cash.

FAIR VALUE

The fair value of the listed investments is measured at bid prices or last prices quoted, depending on the convention of the exchange on which they are listed. Where permitted, unlisted investments, where there is not an active market, are valued using an appropriate valuation technique so as to establish what the transaction price would have been and derivative instruments are valued at the quoted trade price for the contract.
