"Peptides are one of those 'how did we not know about this sooner' tools in wellness, and the demand from clients right now is real. What drew me to Precision Peptide is that they're doing this the smart way, with real science, real testing, and advanced transdermal and oral delivery systems engineered for optimal absorption. That kind of innovation is exactly what this space has been waiting for. I'm genuinely thrilled to be joining the Advisory Board and excited for what's ahead."
