Sirnaomics will present clinical study results and development strategy for Cancer RNA Therapeutics at the 2022 Pre-ASCO China Summit

Gaithersburg, MD, USA and Suzhou BioBay, Jiangsu, China, May 20, 2022 – Sirnaomics Ltd. (the “Company” or “Sirnaomics”, stock code: 2257.HK), a leading biopharmaceutical company in discovery and development of RNAi therapeutics, announced today that the Company’s Executive Director and Chief Medical Officer, Dr. Michael Molyneaux, will present clinical study results of its leading product candidate STP705 for the treatment of non-melanoma skin cancers, and the Company’s clinical development strategy based on its strong presence in both the U.S. and China, at the 2022 Pre-ASCO (American Society of Clinical Oncology) China Summit, entitled: “RNAi Therapeutics in Oncology, from Skin Cancers to Liver Cancers” in a session of Development and Regulatory Strategy for the U.S. and China, on May 21, 2022 with a live Zoom Webinar. Further details about the presentation are listed below.

Based on its dual-targeted siRNA therapeutics design and polypeptide nanoparticle delivery technology, Sirnaomics has established an enriched product pipeline of RNAi therapeutics for treatment of various types of cancer conditions, including the first successful demonstration of a Phase IIa clinical validation of STP705 for treatment of skin squamous cell carcinoma in situ, followed by clinical Phase I study of STP707 for multiple solid tumors such as liver cancers. Additionally, the Company intends to file INDs to initiate clinical studies in 2023 for three programs currently in later preclinical stage: STP355 for colorectal cancer and melanoma, STP369 for head and neck cancer and bladder cancer, and STP779 for cholangiocarcinoma. The development of all these novel RNAi therapeutic programs has taken advantage of the Company’s well positioning in both the U.S. and China.
