2. Summary of the business plan for the year of 2025

Important production and sales policy and company development strategies :

In 2025, the global electronics industry continued to be driven by demand for artificial intelligence (AI), high-performance computing, and advanced packaging applications. As a result, related supply chains gradually recovered and showed a growth trend. MACHVISION continued to deepen its presence in the field of automated optical inspection (AOI) equipment while steadily expanding its footprint in the semiconductor packaging inspection market. Benefiting from the recovery in industry demand and enhanced product competitiveness, MACHVISION achieved significant overall operational growth in 2025, with both revenue and profits reaching record highs.

This operational growth was primarily driven by the recovery in demand for high-end PCB applications, which led to increased shipments of AOI inspection equipment. In addition, semiconductor packaging inspection equipment was gradually introduced to customers, raising the proportion of high value-added products. Coupled with an optimized product mix and market positioning, as well as continuous improvements in cost control and operational efficiency, MACHVISION achieved notable enhancements in revenue scale, profitability, and overall operational strength, demonstrating the effectiveness of its long-term strategic initiatives.

MACHVISION continues to advance its “dual-track, four-line” development strategy by deepening its presence in the PCB AOI equipment market while actively expanding into the semiconductor packaging inspection equipment market. In alignment with this dual-track approach, MACHVISION has established four major product lines: PCB AOI series equipment, PCB four-wire electrical testing series equipment, semiconductor packaging inspection series equipment, and semiconductor packaging and metrology series equipment. Through these initiatives, MACHVISION continues to strengthen its product competitiveness and market positioning, helping customers improve production efficiency and reduce manufacturing costs, thereby enhancing overall competitive advantages.

Looking ahead, as demand for AI applications, advanced packaging, and high-end electronic products continues to grow, the inspection equipment market is expected to maintain steady development. In compliance with the regulations of the competent authorities, the Company has established a Remuneration Committee. Over the past two fiscal years, the remuneration of the members of the Board of Directors has been determined in accordance with the Company's "Board Performance Evaluation Guidelines." In line with corporate governance best practices, the Remuneration Committee evaluates relevant factors such as industry compensation benchmarks, the Company's financial and operational performance, the level of Board engagement, individual contributions to corporate value creation, and risk alignment. ### 3.1.3 Dividend Policy and Implementation Status

A. Dividend Policy

If earnings are available for distribution at the end of a fiscal year, 10% of net earnings – that is, after offsetting any loss from prior year(s) and paying all taxes and dues – shall be set aside as legal reserve and appropriated in accordance with the Securities Exchange Law. The remaining net earnings can be distributed along with prior accumulated unappropriated retained earnings. The Board of Directors will consider the above-mentioned factors when making the dividend distribution proposal. Cash Dividends will be distributed in accordance with the resolution approved by the Board of Directors. Stock dividend will be distributed in accordance with the resolution approved by the Board of Directors and discussed at the annual shareholders' meeting.

The earnings distribution or loss offset shall be proposed at the close of each half year. The half a year's earnings, if any, shall first be used to pay all taxes, reserve employee compensation, and offset prior years' accumulated losses and then set aside 10% as legal reserve. When such legal reserve amounts to the total paid-in capital, the Company shall not be subject to this requirement. The Company may then appropriate or reverse a certain amount as special reserve according to the relevant regulations. The remaining earnings, plus the previous half year's accumulated undistributed earnings, may be distributed in cash according to the distribution plan proposed by the Board of Directors and approved by the Board of Directors or by issuance of new shares according to the distribution plan proposed by the Board of Directors and approved by the shareholders' meeting.

To address the current and future capital needs for business expansion and to meet shareholders' demand for cash inflows, the Company adopts a residual dividend policy. Dividends may not be distributed if the earnings per share (EPS) for the first half of the year is below NT$5. If a dividend distribution is resolved, the total dividend amount shall generally not be less than 10% of the current period's earnings, with cash dividends accounting for no less than 40% of the total dividends. The amount, type, and ratio of dividend distribution may be adjusted based on the actual earnings and operating conditions of the relevant fiscal year.

The current year's earnings, if any, shall first be used to pay all taxes and offset prior years' accumulated losses and then set aside 10% as legal reserve. The Company may then appropriate or reverse a certain amount as special reserve according to the relevant regulations. The remaining earnings, plus the accumulated undistributed earnings, may be distributed by issuance of new shares according to the distribution plan proposed by the Board of Directors and approved by the shareholders' meeting.

The Company is currently in a phase of steady growth. To meet the capital requirements for current and future business expansion and to satisfy shareholders' demand for cash inflows, the Company adopts a residual dividend policy. As a principle, the total dividends distributed annually shall not be less than 10% of the annual earnings, with cash dividends accounting for no less than 40% of the total dividends. The amount, type, and ratio of dividend distribution may be adjusted based on the actual earnings and operating conditions of the relevant fiscal year.

According to Paragraph 5, Article 240 of the Company Act, the Company may authorize the distributable dividends and bonuses, or legal reserve and capital reserve set forth in Paragraph 1, Article 241 of the Company Act, in whole or in part, to be paid in cash after a resolution has been adopted by a majority vote at a meeting of the Board of Directors attended by two-thirds of the total number of directors; in addition thereto, a report of such distribution shall be submitted to the shareholders' meeting.

(3) Company's current commodity (service) projects

The company's expertise is divided into three major technologies: (1) appearance inspection (commonly called AVI); (2) 2-D/3-D measurement; and (3) circuit-inspection (commonly called line AOI). The three technologies are applicable to various industries. For example, AVI can be used for final appearance inspection of PCBs and COFs, appearance inspection of IC substrates, semiconductor wafer appearance inspection, IC package appearance inspection, appearance inspection of passive and active components, LCD defect inspection, Mini-LED PCB appearance inspection, etc. The 3-D measurement technology has broader applications, such as PCB dimple defect inspection, BGA bump inspection, wafer bump inspection, SMT solder-paste thickness inspection, and so on. The circuit-inspection technology can be applied to PCB and COF line inspection, as well as glass substrate and touch-panel line/pattern inspection for LCD arrays. Because the core inspection technologies have been modularized, new inspection systems required by the market can be developed rapidly. In addition, the integration of AI deep-learning reduces false-alarm rates and minimizes verification labor. Below is a concise summary of the inspection products already developed for the PCB, semiconductor, and COF industries, grouped by process:

(4) Planned Development of New Products (Services)

We plan to develop a high precision 4 wire automated test equipment for substrate testing in the ATE market, incorporating our AOI technology to assist fixture installation and tuning. This will significantly simplify the fixture - installation process, shorten cycle time, and increase throughput. During the probing stage, the system can detect probe offset conditions and aid in correcting prober - offset errors, thereby reducing the setup time, which can further boost productivity of ATE. In the semiconductor sector, we will also leverage our experience with IC substrate panels to develop a series of inspection equipment required for wafer and advanced - package AOI (FOPLP, FOWL P, and silicon photonics).

The current status and development analysis of these related industries are as follows:

Analysis of industrial development

A. Industry Development Analysis

Printed circuit boards (PCBs) interconnect electronic components via patterned conductive traces, serving as the essential medium for signal communication and mechanical support. They are the foundation of all electronic products and are widely used in consumer electronics, communications, IT appliances, automotive and aerospace sectors. PCB types include single- or double-sided boards, high-layer-count (HLC) boards, HDI (high-density interconnect) boards, IC substrates, and flexible boards.

As demand for electronic, communication, and AI products grows, trends toward high-speed, and multifunctional designs drive higher-specification needs for PCBs such as HDI, IC substrates, and flexible boards, consequently intensifying the demand for precision measurement and high-accuracy inspection equipment.

The semiconductor industry comprises front-end wafer fabrication and back-end packaging/testing. The rapid expansion of AI applications further amplifies the need for high-precision inspection tools.

(A) Global PCB and Semiconductor Industry Overview

According to a market analysis by TPCA and ITRI's Industrial Technology Center, global PCB output in 2025 is projected at US$92.36 billion, a 15.4% year-over-year increase. Regionally, mainland China accounts for 38.2% of global output (the largest share), followed by Taiwan (31.5%), Japan (12.7%) and South Korea (8.9%). Growth is driven primarily by expanding AI-server applications and a modest recovery in the smartphone and PC markets.

It is forecast that in 2026 global PCB output will exceed the US$100 billion threshold, reaching US$105.21 billion with a double-digit growth rate of 13.9%. The driving force is the continued expansion of AI infrastructure, which fuels demand for AI servers and high-performance computing (HPC).

The World Semiconductor Trade Statistics (WSTS) released a December 2025 forecast indicating that AI-related applications and data-center infrastructure continue to drive the market, raising expected growth to 22% and projecting a total market size of US$772 billion in 2025. For 2026, growth is expected to exceed 25%, with the market reaching US$975 billion. Growth will be across all regions and product categories, with memory and logic chips again posting very high rates—each projected to grow over 30% annually.

(B) Taiwan PCB Industry Overview

According to TPCA's February 2026 market analysis, Taiwan's PCB sector rebounded strongly in 2025, with total domestic and overseas PCB manufacturing output reaching NT$915.2 billion—a historic second-highest level—and a year-over-year growth of 12.0%. The primary catalyst was continued AI-server demand, which boosted shipments of high-layer count boards (HLC), substrates, and HDI products.

Computer and semiconductor applications remained the main growth engines; consumer markets benefited from AI-smart glasses and other new products; automotive applications declined due to a slowdown in EV demand in Europe and the U.S., making it the only shrinking segment in 2025.

Profitability improved as high-margin AI-related products accounted for a larger share, and the depreciation of the New Taiwan dollar added a foreign-exchange benefit. PCB manufacturers performed markedly wider profit margins after Q3 2025, enjoying both price and volume gains. However, AI-server demand outpaced expectations, creating material-supply constraints for high-performance copper-clad laminates and copper foil, prompting firms to adjust pricing and form strategic alliances.

It is projected that in 2026 PCB output will cross the NT$1 trillion mark, reaching NT$1.02 trillion (an 11.5% increase). Growth drivers will shift from AI model training to inference deployment, expanding applications from single-point servers to full systems and edge-computing devices. The demand for large-size substrates to support AI chips will become a key focus for R&D and volume production, making 2026 a pivotal year for technology validation and mass-production transition.

In response to geopolitical considerations, Taiwanese firms operating advanced production lines in Thailand (e.g., ZD, Unimicron, Compaq, GCE) are expected to reach peak capacity in 2026. Upstream CCL material suppliers such as TUC and ITEQ are also accelerating local manufacturing to bolster supply-chain resilience. Additionally, Taiwanese companies are establishing footprints in Vietnam, gradually shaping a Southeast-Asian strategic cluster.

(2) Relationship among the upstream, midstream, and downstream of the industry
Machine-vision-related inspection (including AOI):

(3) Development trends and competitive situation of the products

A. AOI equipment is moving toward higher precision and higher speed

In Taiwan and other advanced economies, the trend toward thinner, lighter, and more compact electronic products, together with ever-higher quality demands, will drive a renewal of conventional AOI equipment. Measurement capabilities will shift from 2-D inspection to 3-D volumetric inspection, and AI-based defect detection will become more sophisticated, thereby increasing demand for more precise and faster AOI systems.

B. Trends in demand for AOI manufacturing

AOI has always been a necessary investment for advanced-nation industries to guarantee product quality. In traditionally labor-intensive factories, production speeds were low and AOI was not required for quality control; the focus was on automation to boost output. As automation has matured, the need for inspection personnel has risen sharply to match higher capacity. While low labor costs once made manual inspection viable, increasingly stringent product specifications, rising wages, and the reluctance of younger workers to stay in manufacturing have led to high turnover. Consequently, AOI has become an essential next-stage investment for the electronics and semiconductor sectors, and demand is naturally expanding.

C. Growing demand for AOI in traditional industries

Manual visual inspection can no longer ensure quality in traditional factories. To avoid obsolescence, Taiwanese conventional manufacturers are moving toward higher-quality processes and are replacing manual checks with AOI equipment, leading to a continued rise in AOI demand.

D. Localization of equipment production

The rapid rise of emerging high-tech sectors has dramatically increased the need for precision metrology, especially for automated visual inspection. AOI technology spans many fields—semiconductor, flat-panel displays, LED, PCB, and optical lenses. Most AOI users are located in Asia, and historically Taiwan’s major industries relied on imported AOI systems, which are often expensive, hard to service, and carry high distribution costs. Government support for localization, exemplified by ITRI’s “Automated Optical Inspection Equipment Alliance,” unites industry, academia, and research institutes to formulate a national AOI development strategy. In recent years, local OEMs have markedly improved their capabilities, offering prices more competitive than foreign brands and enabling faster, more effective communication with customers. Consequently, both domestic and overseas players are increasingly sourcing AOI equipment from local manufacturers to cut costs and enhance service quality.

E. Competitive landscape

Our R&D focuses on developing cutting-edge products for blue-ocean markets where no dominant rivals currently exist, so our primary competition is our own ability to innovate and keep pace with industry evolution. Where competitors do exist, they typically serve larger market segments; for example, in PCB circuit inspection the main foreign rivals are KLA, CIMS (formerly Camtek’s PCB division), and SCREEN, which constitute our chief external competition. In 2017 we introduced higher-throughput, labor-saving solutions that prompted many major manufacturers to replace legacy equipment, dramatically boosting our competitiveness and positioning us as a market leader. In the appearance-AVI inspection arena, overseas competition is led by Japanese firms such as Shirai, while domestically companies like Utech also develop similar systems. Both product categories compete primarily on detection rate and throughput, and the integration of newly developed AI deep-learning capabilities further reduces re-inspection labor. This not only challenges old leaders but also widens the gap with other rivals, while our quality-service system enhances customer satisfaction.

For many of our other product lines, competitors are mainly followers. Take the Hole-AOI system as an example: high-end foreign vendors compete on advanced functionality, while low-end players compete mainly on price. Our strategy is to expand R&D, continuously improve and segment the market, and launch multiple models to serve varied customer tiers, thereby safeguarding margin and competitive advantage. Patent protection further widens the functional gap with rivals. In addition, we are committed to elevating service quality, consolidating existing client relationships, and attracting new customers.

In the semiconductor sector we have historically relied heavily on foreign suppliers, but in the back-end packaging domain—especially for advanced packaging processes—rapid production changes create a strong demand for inspection equipment, giving domestic solutions a greater chance of being adopted to meet those needs.

4.1.3 Research and Development

- (2) Market share

Our core business is the manufacture, research-development and sale of machine-vision inspection and metrology equipment. In the 2025 global top-100 PCB ranking, more than 90 % of the listed firms are our customers.

Our product portfolio comprises PCB drilling and routing process measurement & inspection series, 2D/3D metrology series, PCB pattern inspection series, HDI and IC substrate & FPCB inspection series. We focus chiefly on board and panel metrology and inspection, making us one of the few companies in the industry simultaneously possessing pattern AOI, AVI, and 2D/3D metrology technologies.

Certain products-such as the ultra-high speed 1.4 mil AOI (LW/LS 10/10  $\mu\text{m}$  also available), Laser-Via AOIM, and flexible/rigid board appearance inspection machines—lead the market in the fields. Other offerings, like artwork inspection machines and 2D metrology instruments, also hold a measurable share.

- (3) Future market supply/demand and growth

Printed circuit boards (PCBs) serve as the substrate that interconnects electronic components via patterned circuitry, thereby enabling each component to perform its function. PCBs are the foundational and critical component of the entire electronics industry.

As PCB products-including HDI, IC substrates and flexible boards-move toward higher-density, finer-pitch designs, visual inspection by eye becomes impossible, and contact-type electrical tests are often infeasible due to the minute line widths. Consequently, the demand for precision metrology and inspection equipment becomes increasingly acute.

Rising labor costs and workforce shortages further push manufacturers to replace manual inspection with automated systems, even for mid-and low-end products. Moreover, as Taiwan's PCB market shows a strongly rebound, Taiwanese PCB makers continue to expand capacity in China and Southeast Asia and deepen ties with major system-integrator supply chains, which will stimulate greater demand for inspection equipment. Leveraging more than two decades of 2D and 3D inspection expertise in the industry sector, we will extend our technologies to other micro-electronics fields such as semiconductor packaging/test and COF (chip-on-film) manufacturing, thereby broadening our addressable market. Ongoing integration of AI deep-learning capabilities will further reduce labor dependence and enlarge our market footprint.

(4) Strength for competition

A. The Strong R&D Team

We are a professional manufacturer of machine-vision inspection and metrology systems, integrating core competencies in optical imaging, image processing, AI, precision mechanics and motion control. Our R&D team combines expertise from optics, mechanics, electronics and software, and we have instituted a suite of professional training programs to build a knowledge-management platform that enhances engineers' capabilities. This enables us to deliver highly accurate, fast-to-market visual inspection solutions that keep pace with a rapidly evolving environment, bridging theory and practice. Our technology development already surpasses domestic rivals, and several products meet international-advanced standards, earning strong trust and reliance from our customers. In 2024 we also invested in HYE Technology Co., Ltd., expanding our R&D and product-development capacity.

B. Providing a Comprehensive Range of Products

We have developed a comprehensive product suite for the PCB, semiconductor packaging/test, and COF sectors that not only meets customer requirements but also surpasses the quality of imported equipment. This full-range metrology and inspection portfolio enables us to offer plant-wide measurement solutions, enhancing our competitiveness through bundled sales. Moreover, each product line includes both mid-range and high-end models, allowing us to serve diverse customer segments and boost market share. As IC substrates and advanced packaging (e.g., CoPoS, CoWoP) become increasingly interlinked, we can further leverage upstream and downstream integration.

C. Timely local after-sales service and professional maintenance capability

The development of machine-vision systems requires close, long-term collaboration with customers, who also prefer a nearby supplier. Asia accounts for over 90 % of global PCB production value, and the majority of semiconductor and packaging manufacturers are located in the Asia-Pacific. We maintain service centers in Taiwan, Mainland China, Southeast Asia and Northeast Asia, providing rapid, convenient on-site maintenance and technical support. Issues are resolved promptly, and we can perform on-the-fly hardware or software adjustments to meet market demands, enhancing product functionality and competitiveness while building customer trust. Additionally, we offer remote augmented-reality (AR) maintenance support; anomalies can be diagnosed and remedied under the guidance of our command center via AR, reducing the need for on-site personnel.

We also operate a dedicated customer-service training program that educates client personnel on operating our equipment, ensuring long-term, confident usage and deepening client reliance and demand for our solutions.

D. Having the leading clients in terms of channel

We offer a wide variety of inspection equipment for different manufacturing processes and serve more than one hundred customers, spanning full-process factories, single-process shops, equipment manufacturers, and material suppliers across diverse professional fields. All of the world's top ten PCB manufacturers are long-term customers, and 90 % of the top 100 PCB makers use our equipment.

Having such an extensive installed base enables the company to quickly gain market entry when launching new products. Over the years, we have built a strong brand reputation and expanded into international markets, giving us a significant competitive advantage in the AOI industry.

(5) Positive and negative factors for developing vision and the preventive measures

A. Positive Factors

(A) Continuous expansion of inspection demand:

The surge of 5G, electric-vehicle, and AI technologies is driving the electronics, information and communications sectors worldwide toward thinner, lighter and more compact products. Taiwan's well-integrated ICT ecosystem further stimulates demand for upstream production equipment. Meanwhile, global AI servers, personal computers and peripheral devices continue to expand, creating abundant application opportunities for the electronics industry. Advanced packaging technologies such as CoWoS, CoPoS and CoWoP accelerate the convergence of PCBs and substrates. Our long-standing focus on PCB and semiconductor vision inspection and metrology equipment positions us to meet this trend, enabling rapid development of high-performance AOI systems that satisfy emerging market needs.

(B) High entry barriers:

A machine-vision system must integrate optics, image processing, precision mechanics, automatic control and AI. This demands recruitment of multidisciplinary talent and close cooperation with end-users, making the entry barrier extremely high; consequently, only a few companies have succeeded in entering this field.

(C) Experienced development team:

We have successfully created dozens of patented innovative products, validated by several world-class manufacturers, and continue to receive proactive requests from customers to co-develop related vision-inspection systems. Ongoing investment in new technologies ensures we maintain a technology-leading position.

(D) High labor costs and increasing demand:

Higher wages, benefits and social-insurance expenses in electronic manufacturing raise the incentive to adopt automation. Consequently, the willingness to invest in AOI equipment grows. Our automated solutions help customers reduce labor and increase net income, which will further support the future development of their operations, particularly in cutting-edge microelectronics.

(E) Sound operations and solid finances:

Since our establishment in 1998, we have continuously developed a range of visual-metrology and inspection systems that have been well received by major domestic and international customers. Revenue and profit have remained strong, with profit reported every year to date, and we have not engaged in aggressive financial maneuvers. This stable operational and financial foundation enables us to invest in R&D, monitor market trends, and launch new products promptly. Advanced AOI development, which has high entry barriers, requires strong financial support.

B. Negative Factors

(A)Critical components such as cameras, CCD sensors, image-acquisition cards and lenses are still import-dependent

Countermeasure: Maintain strong relationships with multiple suppliers rather than relying on a single source; in product design, increase system flexibility so that components from different manufacturers can be interchanged.

(B)Product line consists of optical inspection systems only

Countermeasure: We also invest in SISSCA Co., Ltd., which is developing a high-end 4W ATE system and owns core electronic technology, to reduce the industry's reliance on imported equipment. In addition, we can pair this offering with our existing automated optical pattern inspection systems, providing customers with a complete solution that covers both electrical signal testing and image inspection capabilities.

(C)Growth of advanced industries makes recruitment of R&D engineers difficult

Countermeasure: Leverage state-of-the-art AI tools to aid software and hardware development, thereby reducing the amount of human R&D effort required. Simultaneously, continue building industry alliances to expand our development capacity and market reach.

4.2.2 Production Procedures of Main Products

(1) Functions of the major products

A. The measuring and inspection series for the manufacturing process of

PCB drilling and routing:

- a. Express Hole-AOI: as the trend of PCB fine line, the drilled hole will be getting smaller (pore size under 100um) and there shall be more holes drilled (500 thousand holes/piece), hence the precision of the drilled hole is getting more important. By using Express Hole-AOI, the precision can be up to +/- 5 um, and the measuring for a piece of board with 300 thousand holes can be completed in 20 seconds that can not only enhance the yield of drilling process, but also can monitor the output quality of a drilling machine on the production line as well as reduce the obsolescent and maintenance cost.
- b. All-purpose Dimensional Measuring System: measuring the device under test mainly by non-contact way to automatically measure the angle, coordinates, distance, dimension of a two dimensional object such as point, line, circle, and arc. That can be applied widely to the size measuring of profiled board, the dilatation of inner layer and film, and the various quality inspection report. In addition to save manpower, it can also help on obtaining more precise measuring results and feedback to the production line for continual improvement and enhancing the capability of manufacturing process.

B. PCB Wiring Inspection Series:

- a. Film AOI system: films are the critical basis for producing PCB wiring while any of the continuity & insulation, indenting, bump, splotch on the film shall cause a bad inner and outer layer PCB or make it discarded. A film AOI system can read the original design data of the wiring on a film as the basis for comparison to inspect any defects and reduce the false alarm rate.
- b. Line gauge: measuring line width can get the quality level on how does etching result control the conducting lines. The traditional way of measuring by naked eyes with microscopic magnifier does not only have the problem of bad reproducibility, but due to the trend of fine lines, measuring by naked eyes can no longer meet the requirement. Line Gauge has the imaging mechanism with patent that can show the image of fine lines clearly; when working together with the image processing technology of sub-pixel and linear regression, the precision accuracy of measuring can reach 1 um.
- c. Wiring inspection for inner and outer layers:
Multi layered board of PCB has 6, 8, or 10 layers, and even up to more than 30 layers for achieving the requirement of electronic products in being small and compact. However, the lines on each layer have to be scanned and inspected to avoid spur, indenting, and continuity & insulation, as well as to enhance the yield of drilling process and reduce the loss of obsolescent. Right now, it can also help on enhancing the production rate and even reach unmanned high-speed production with the add-on of automation.

C. HDI and IC Substrate Inspection Series:

a. LaserVia-AOIM: due to the requirement of mobile phone PCB and IC substrate in being small and compact, laser drilling has become an important production process. LaserVia-AOIM can inspect if the laser power is weak or over and if there is residual or shift, to enhance the processing capability of engineering unit and prevent from the bad output of production unit.

b. 3D Profiler: in order to ensure the reliability of products, it is required to have copper-filling plating after laser drilling. However, it would be time consuming and inaccurate to inspect hundreds of thousands of holes on the board and get the hole with the denting up to 5 ums. The inspection for copper-filling plating utilizes the most advanced 3D measuring technology that can measure the denting level of each hole for 1 million holes in 3 minutes, a revolutionary breakthrough for the filling in copper electroplating.

c. Solid Measuring Viewer system: high-end PCB has to be measured on its 3D data such as line thickness, solder height, or hole depth. The traditional measuring way may cause destruction and time consuming if it adopts slicing; therefore, it can protect device under test while save time by adopting optical measurement 3D solution.

D. AFI Series:

AFI series can be applied to various automatic final inspecting systems including multi layered board, HDI board, IC substrate, FPCB, assembled FPCB, wafer and COF. The series can also add AI capability to the system.

(2) The manufacturing process

A. The Company's products are mainly modular assembly that can be categorized to the modules of mechanism, electric control, optics, and software system.

B. Each module is assembled and quality controlled based on assembly operation standards and test specification.

C. The assembled product will be going through a 72-hour function and system software test by the quality control team to ensure the quality of the shipment.

4.6 Information-Communication Security Management

(A) Information/Communication Security Risk Management Infrastructure, Information/Communication Security Policies, Specific Management Approaches and the Resources Required to Invest in the Management of Information/Communication Security Management

1. Information/Communication Security Risk Management Infrastructure

The Company establishes the Risk Management Committee targeting risks related to information security. The chief of the IT Department serves as the convener while the network service members participating in the actual execution of information security projects form the Committee members. One dedicated information security supervisor and one dedicated personnel are assigned to take charge of the establishment of the information security system, technical introduction, and information security supervision and auditing through cooperation with colleagues from the IT Department.

The Committee conducts risk analysis on the information security and internet risk assessment procedures based on the level of risk effect and probability of occurrence. The Committee also conducts corresponding management mechanisms for high-risk environments and systems to establish the high-reliability model, data backup architecture, and remote backup model, which will reduce the impact of information security events.

The Committee formulates and regularly reviews the information security policies in addition to reporting the information security event reporting and response mechanism on the monthly information security report and anomalies review meeting. The Committee also reports the information security checks to the Board of Directors.

2. Information/Communication Security Policies

- (1) Enterprise Information Security Management Strategies and Infrastructure
Machvision views information security as a critical operational priority. We are committed to safeguarding the confidentiality, integrity, and availability of our information assets while ensuring robust privacy protection. By establishing management systems and publicizing security policies, we aim to prevent both internal and external threats-whether intentional or accidental-and mitigate security risks to an acceptable level.

The company requires all employees and business associates (including customers, suppliers, and partners) to comply with relevant regulations. This collective adherence ensures the continuous operation of our business and services, fulfilling the requirements of both regulatory authorities and legal mandates.

- (2) Continuous Improvement Infrastructure
Our company will be maintaining the PDCA (Plan-Do-Check-Act) Cyclic Management to ensure that targets are met and continuous improvement is in place.

We will be following the “Information/Communication Security Control Guide for Publicly Listed and OTC Companies” published by the Taiwan Stock Exchange, as the foundation for our cyclic improvements. The guide was meant to assist public listed companies in strengthening their information security protection and management.

3. Specific Management Approaches and the Resources Required to Invest in the Management of Information/Communication Security Management

MACHVISION is a team based on IT research and development, so it especially emphasizes and maintains the key competitiveness of research and development, in addition to the anti-virus and anti-hacking protective measures for software and hardware that many other companies have implemented.

As of 2025, the implementation of three-level information security has been completed, as described below:

- (1) Data encryption management : All internal digital assets, including documents, image files, and source code, are protected by comprehensive data encryption. Any sharing of specific reports or data with customers and suppliers must undergo a stringent application and decryption review process. This ensures that external partners access information only under secure authorization, striking a perfect balance between business development and the protection of confidentiality.

- (2) Machvision implements hierarchical management of its operational environments. For high-sensitivity core areas, comprehensive endpoint device controls are enforced, strictly prohibiting unauthorized external hardware from connecting to the internal network. Upon detection of abnormal connections or unauthorized operations, the system immediately triggers automated isolation and blocking protocols.
Furthermore, to balance operational needs with data exchange requirements for business and customer service units, "Dedicated Virus Scanning Stations" have been established on every floor for USB device management. We strictly enforce a Standard Operating Procedure (SOP) of "Scan Before Release" for all external data, ensuring the integrity and security of our internal network environment.
- (3) Boundary Protection and Endpoint Security Architecture In response to the increasing frequency and complexity of malware and cyberattacks, Machvision continues to fortify its overall information security awareness and infrastructure. By deploying internal endpoint protection systems and external firewall mechanisms, we proactively block external threats. We are committed to mitigating cybersecurity risks to ensure that our operations, financial standing, and overall development remain resilient against the impact of security incidents.
- (4) Supporting and backup mechanism: Execute the upgrade of the critical server system to high reliability, and incorporate the upgrade and improvement on the virtual server model and backup server. Full-system backups are implemented for computers used by R&D personnel and senior executives to ensure a complete restoration of their operating environments. This measure is designed to mitigate the risk of data loss resulting from malware and computer virus attacks.
- (5) Introduction of mail filtering service: Introduce cloud mail filtering service to mitigate the risk of related mail attacks.
- (6) Establishing the management architecture of server status: Established a monitoring platform for server services and resource status.
- (7) Conduct vulnerability scanning and social engineering drills to assess internal and external environmental risks and strengthen social engineering awareness training.

- (8) Early Warning Mechanisms for System and IT Infrastructure Anomalies: To ensure the availability and security of our information services, the Company continuously optimizes its monitoring mechanisms for IT infrastructure and equipment. By dynamically reviewing and progressively expanding system anomaly alert functions, we are committed to enhancing early detection capabilities for potential risks, ensuring the stable and secure operation of our corporate environment.
- (9) Mobile Device Management (MDM) mechanisms have been implemented within controlled areas and on employee devices to strictly prevent unauthorized photography and safeguard the security of confidential information.
- (10) To mitigate potential data leakage risks associated with external AI services, the Company has established a dedicated internal offline Large Language Model (LLM). This initiative balances operational efficiency with robust corporate information security.

(B) Major Information/Communication Security Incidents, the Incurred Damages, Possible Impacts, and the Action Plans for the Recent Fiscal Years and as of the date the Annual Report is Issued.

1. For the recent fiscal years and as of the date our annual report is issued, no incurred damages were identified to be resulting from major information/communication security incidents.

2. Information technology security risks and the management measures

Machvision has been continuously reviewing and evaluating the information security protocols and procedures to ensure their adaptability and effectiveness. However, in view of the ever-changing information security threats, we can not guarantee to be immune to possible impacts resulting from innovative risks and deliberate attacks.

In view of the recent complex events regarding a few big names being attacked by some malware and/or computer viruses, we have continuously strengthened our information security protection awareness. By leveraging the resources from the top-line information security companies for training and real-time assistance, we pledge to minimize the risks that may compromise our commitments to our customers and stockholders, also to prevent any negative impacts that may jeopardize our operation results, financial, and future outlook.

| 1. The increase in current assets was primarily due to business growth, which led to higher accounts receivable and increased available funds.                                                 |           |           |            |        |
| 2. The increase in current liabilities and total liabilities were mainly attributable to improved operating performance, resulting in higher income tax payable for the current period.        |           |           |            |        |
| 3. The increase in retained earnings was mainly due to an increase in net income after tax.                                                                                                    |           |           |            |        |
| 4. The increase in other equity was mainly due to exchange differences arising from the translation of financial statements of foreign operations, affected by fluctuations in exchange rates. |           |           |            |        |
