As Covid wanes, healthtech platform Cult.fit sees 75-90% business recovery

YATTISONI

Bengaluru, June 23

Naresh Krishnaswamy, Business Head, Cult.fit, spoke to BusinessLine on business after the third Covid wave and progress on the company's recent acquisitions—the Gold's Gym India franchise and sports start-up Fitso. Excerpts:

THE BL INTERVIEW

How has the business recovery been following the third Covid wave?

Over the last six months, people have shown a greater tendency to step out of their homes and visit public spaces including gyms, theatres and sports arenas. There is a distinct difference following the third wave, which receded in January-February 2022.

The fitness industry is almost back to pre-Covid levels. The recovery would be anywhere between 75 and 100 per cent, depending on the business.

For example, in sports centres and swimming pools, the de-

Fitness industry is almost back to pre-Covid levels. The recovery would be 75-100 per cent. In sports centres and swimming pools, the demand is back at 200 per cent

NARESH KRISHNASWAMY
Business Head, Cult.fit

is growing month-on-month.

Cult.fit saw huge customer adoption on its digital workout session during the pandemic. What is the online-offline user split now?

The split between offline and on-line users would be roughly 1:2, for every one online user on our platform, there are two offline users. We have about 1 lakh subscribers on the digital platform, which continues to grow. In 2020, right after the pandemic, our online user base hit a certain . However, we are seeing healthy trend, users are switching between online and offline. People are doing two or three sessions a week in the centre, and the odd day or two, when they are not able to come into the centre, they do online workouts. We are still bullish on digital fitness and continue to build more products there.

In the past, Cult.fit has talked about adding more tech aspects to its offline centres. What are these new additions?

We have installed screens in 40-50 per cent of our centres and are in the process of installing at more centres. These screens project the workout and the movements that our member is going to perform, which allows the trainer to help individual users.

Over the last six months we rolled out the smart workout planner. Users can input their parameters, the workouts they like and don't like, and the planner creates a custom workout for them.

What is the update on the partnership with Gold's Gym? Almost 25 Gold's Gym partners have been made live on our platform and we are hoping to get another 50 to 75 live by the year-end. So, about 100 will be available on the Cult platform by the year-end.

Curefit acquired Fitso from Zomato late last year. How is that business doing?

The lion's share of the supply, as well as consumer demand, has been in two sports—swimming and badminton. But we continue to offer other sports as well, including tennis, squash and football. We are currently present in Delhi, Bengaluru, and Hyderabad and move into other cities next year.
