Trump praises Putin for holding back in spy row

US President-elect Donald Trump on Friday praised Russian President Vladimir Putin for refraining from retaliation in a dispute over spying and cyber attacks, in another sign that the Republican plans to patch up badly frayed relations with Moscow.

Putin earlier on Friday said he would not hit back for the US expulsion of 35 suspected Russian spies by President Barack Obama, at least until Trump takes office on January 20.

“Great move on delay (by V Putin)—I always knew he was very smart!” Trump wrote on Twitter from Florida, where he is on vacation.

Obama on Thursday ordered the expulsion of the Russians and imposed sanctions on two Russian intelligence agencies over their involvement in hacking political groups in the November 8 US presidential election. “We will not expel anyone,” Putin said in a statement, adding that Russia reserved the right to retaliate. “Further steps towards the restoration of Russian-American relations will be built on the basis of the policy which the administration of President D Trump will carry out,” he said.

“How honest will gain from the government. This government is a friend of good people and wants to build on the good environment for the people to return to goodness,” he said.

Acknowledging that “serious offences” have been committed by some bank and government officials taking advantage of situation, he said “they will not be spared”.

He said corruption, black money, counterfeit currency had crippled the common man, but 125 crore citizens have proved that for them truth and honesty is important despite inconveniences post demonetisation. “Foundation of a bright future has been laid through their sweat and toil,” the PM said.

“I knew people had to stand in queues to withdraw their own money but people don’t want to be even a step behind in fight against corruption and black money,” he said.

He said all concerned have been directed to restore normalcy in the banking system, particularly in rural and far flung areas, to end the difficulties of people.

“The Indian economy had cash circulation disproportionately higher than similar sized economies which had led to price rise. A balance has to be brought between cash in the system and being cashless,” he said, adding that only 24 lakh people have declared their income of being over ₹10 lakh.

The PM asked political parties to move away from holier-than-thou attitude and come together to take some steps to ensure transparency and free politics of black money and corruption. “We cannot allow this fight against black money or corruption to slow down,” he said. He added that the time has come for a serious debate on breaking the endless cycle of elections and cutting down on administrative expenses by holding parliamentary and assembly elections simultaneously. Modi also announced raising credit guarantees for MSMEs and converting kisan credit card to rupay cards.

Smart clothing stitches new tech frontiers

And, be it an athlete or a common customer, the smart clothing market is stitching new frontiers for everyone.

Take any simple piece of clothing. A pair of socks even. Now imagine if your socks could tell you more about your style of running? Smart socks developed by smart clothing company Sensoria do just that. They are infused with comfortable, textile pressure sensors, which inform the user in real time when they are striking with the heel or the ball of their foot. Through the Sensoria Fitness smartphone app, one can monitor their foot-landing technique as they run and improve their running style.

Samsung’s Smart Suit showcased at the IFA Berlin in 2015 had an NFC tag embedded in the sleeve button and an exclusive app allowed wearers to use various NFC functions when wearing the suit. Dubbed the Smart Suit 4.0, it is not available in India yet, but a similar product in the Indian market is the Arrow Smart Shirt. The Arrow Smart Shirt might look like any other crisp garment, but it is no ordinary shirt, coming with an NFC tag that fits in the left cuff.

Users who wear the shirt need to install the Arrow Smart Shirt app, which lets them connect to their LinkedIn and Facebook accounts. After this they can use their favourite app and music playlist simply by tapping their smartphone on the shirt’s cuff.

Users wearing the shirt can also share their business card or send their LinkedIn profile to an acquaintance during business meetings by tapping their phone on the cuff. A possible stumbling block could be the fact this shirt is only bound to work with NFC-enabled phones, but at a price of ₹2,999, the Arrow Smart Shirt looks like a piece of smart clothing that is hard to turn down.

“We had to put in a lot of research and had to experiment with various options before launching the final product. We had to ensure that the shirt was easy to use and comfortable to wear at the same time. One of the key parameters for us was also to ensure that maintenance of the shirt was easy. This is a shirt that was tested for multiple washes,” says a spokesperson for Arvind Lifestyle Brand, the company behind the Arrow Smart Shirt. Launched in August 2016, the smart shirt has garnered positive reviews so far. The product is available for sale both online and offline.

Another recent innovation comes from the combined efforts of Project Jacquard by Google and clothing company Levi’s. The result is the Levi’s Commuter Trucker Jacket, which weaves interactive fibres into denim to create a fashionable yet functional jacket. According to the Project Jacquard website, the jacket is designed specifically for urban bike commuters and allows cyclists to control their mobile experience and connect to a variety of services, such as music or maps, directly from the jacket sleeve. The digital connectivity is possible through a smart tag. Apart from the tag, the whole interactive garment is washable and durable just like regular denim.

The future of smart clothing is getting better. Imagine this situation: You are running late for a meeting and your smartphone decides to run out of juice. The obvious solution that comes to your mind is a portable powerbank. But what if you were wearing your powerbank? As per a study published in the scientific journal ACS Nano, Chinese researchers have created new smart fibers that could store solar energy.

The scientists created two different types of fibres or threads. “The fibre supercapacitor with merits of tailorability, ultrafast charging capability, and ultrahigh bending-resistance is used as the energy storage module, while an all-solid dye-sensitized solar cell textile is used as the solar energy harvesting module,” the study says. Once combined, the two materials formed a flexible textile that can be cut and tailored into a ‘smart garment’ that can be fully charged by sunlight. This could possibly charge smartphones and tablets.

While this clothing is not yet available in the market, it presents a fascinating future where wearables could well and truly become a part of our body. We could soon power wearable devices using just our body heat, thanks to a new flexible supercapacitor that can charge itself using heat from the surroundings — without any external power supply or battery.

Reports also say researchers have developed a new concept of electrical energy storage — thermally chargeable solid-state supercapacitors, which allows charging to be completed using heat energy in addition to the traditional electrical charging method for capacitors. “This is the first time that it has been discovered that a solid-state polymer electrolyte can produce large thermally induced voltage,” Choongho Yu, professor at Texas A&M University in the US, was quoted saying in a news report.

“The voltage can then be used to initiate an electrochemical reaction in electrodes for charging,” Yu added.

The supercapacitor works by converting thermal energy into electrical energy and then storing it in the device at the same time. Human body heat, or any heat dissipating objects that create temperature differences from their surroundings, can be used to charge the capacitor without any external power source.

Akhilesh, Ram Gopal back in SP

“Netaji has told me to revoke Akhilesh’s expulsion. Now we will all fight UP polls united and will form the government with majority. Now all misunderstandings are over and we will discuss all the things again and take decisions. We will discuss on ticket distribution,” he said.

On a day of fast-paced political developments, over 200 of the 225 MLAs turned up at the meeting of SP legislators convened by Akhilesh. They expressed their loyalty with the CM, a day after he was expelled from the party for “indiscipline”. Interestingly, Mulayam Singh Yadav, who had also called a meeting of all the candidates that he has named for the UP assembly elections this morning, was shocked when only about 20-25 legislators showed up for the meeting, along with about 60 other candidates.

Code related to Russia hacking found on US computer

Dec 31: A code associated with a broad Russian hacking campaign dubbed Grizzly Steppe by the Obama administration has been detected on a laptop associated with a Vermont electric utility but not connected to the grid, the utility said on Friday.

“We took immediate action to isolate the laptop and alerted federal officials of this finding,” the Burlington Electric Department said in a statement. “Our team is working with federal officials to trace this malware and prevent any other attempts to infiltrate utility systems.”

The department of homeland security alerted utilities on Thursday night about a malware code used in Grizzly Steppe, the Burlington Electric Department said.

“We acted quickly to scan all computers in our system for the malware signature. We detected the malware in a single Burlington Electric Department laptop not connected to our organisation’s grid systems,” it said.

The matched malware code on the laptop may have resulted from a relatively benign episode, such as visiting a questionable website, a source familiar with the matter said, suggesting Russian hackers may not have been directly involved. It was not clear when the incident occurred.

On Thursday, President Barack Obama ordered the expulsion of 35 Russian suspected spies and imposed sanctions on two Russian intelligence agencies over their involvement in hacking US political groups in the 2016 presidential election.

The statement came after a Washington Post report that Russian hackers penetrated a Vermont utility. Government and utility industry officials regularly monitor the nation’s electrical grid because it is highly computerised and any disruptions can have disastrous implications for the functioning of medical and emergency services, the Post said.

ગાંધીધામ, તા. ૩૧ : ગુજરાતની એસ.ટી. બસોમાં અહેરા, મૂંગા તથા માનસિક બીમાર વિકલાંગ વ્યક્તિની સાથેના સહાયકને એસ.ટી. બસમાં મફત મુસાફરી અને રાહત આપવા માટે મામે ભાવના મહેશ્વરી મંડળે મહિલા-બાળ વિકાસ કમિશનરને લેખિતમાં રજૂઆત કરી હતી.

મામે ભાવના મહેશ્વરી મંડળે મહિલા-બાળ વિકાસ કમિશનરને કરી રજૂઆત

પરંતુ આ સેવા બંધ કરવાનો પરિપત્ર બહાર પાડવામાં આવ્યો છે જેના કારણે વિકલાંગોમાં નારાજગી પ્રસરી છે. વિકલાંગોના સહાયકને આ સુવિધાનો લાભ આપવા માંગ કરાઈ હતી.

દળાણરૂપી હાથલારીઓ હટતાં મહેરમલી 'ચોક' દેખાણો : ભુજની બજારમાં ટ્રાફિકને અડચણરૂપ અનેક હાથલારીઓના ધંધાધોળિઓએ આડેધડ ઊભા રહી જતા દુકાનદાર વેપારીઓએ રોજની માથાના દુઃખાવારૂપ ટ્રાફિક સમસ્યાના મુદ્દે ફરિયાદ કરી હતી. શનિવારે નગરપાલિકા તથા ટ્રાફિક પોલીસે સાથે મળીને વાણિયાવાડ વિસ્તારમાં આવા હાથલારીવાળાઓને હટાવ્યા હતા. દેખાણો દૂર થતાં હવે ખરેખર મહેરમલી 'ચોક' દેખાણો છે. બાજુનું દ્રશ્ય દેખાણ હટ્યા પૂર્વેનું છે. આવી સફાઈ કેટલો સમય રહેશે તે પ્રશ્ન છે.
