Cambridge Technology Enterprises opens new office in Kentucky

Leading technology services provider expands team to service the Midwest and Southern U.S.

Hyderabad, India, 10 November 2015 – Cambridge Technology Enterprises Ltd (“CTE”), an IT services leader focused on the convergence of big data and cloud, announced a further expansion of its U.S presence with the opening of its Louisville, Kentucky office.

The new office in Louisville, Kentucky comes on the heels of the recent launch of CTE’s Miami/Fort Lauderdale, Florida and Seattle, Washington offices earlier this year. The opening of these new offices demonstrates CTE’s commitment to provide its customers with quality service.

Heading the Louisville office and CTE’s regional expansion efforts, Sudip Kar, Vice President of Cambridge Technology Enterprises said, “CTE has been servicing companies in the Midwest and South. Louisville is home to many renowned Fortune 500 companies. CTE is looking to bolster its application development, cloud and big data support to its existing customers, as well as expand its operations in the region and increase its mid-sized customer base”.

“The opening of our office in Louisville, Kentucky extends our local presence in the U.S and demonstrates our commitment to our customers and partners in the region. The Midwest and South are vital to our global growth strategy, especially as we focus on expanding our capabilities in the convergence of cloud and big data across industries,” said Aashish Kalra, Chairman, Cambridge Technology Enterprises Ltd.

CTE’s Louisville office will focus on deploying innovative analytics and big data solutions for clients. The company also plans to explore opportunities in the local employment market and expand the team to support additional sales, customer and client engagements.
