Jio Seeks Spectrum Use by both Satcom Players & Telcos

Battling for dual use of Ku and Ka bands, co highlights decision by New Zealand govt allowing such usage

Kiran.Ratheemtimesgroup.com

New Delhi: Reliance Jio has sought flexible use of spectrum between satellite and terrestrial networks from the telecom regulator, particularly in the Ku and Ka bands, and highlighted a recent decision taken by New Zealand government allowing such dual use. In its letter to the Telecom Regulatory Authority of India (Trai) on September 5, Jio requested the regulator to allow flexible use of spectrum based on the latest changes in technology and standards that allowed the creation of integrated and converged networks.

A copy of the letter was also marked to the Department of Telecommunications (DoT).

Neeraj Mittal Takes Charge as DoT Secy

New Delhi: Neeraj Mittal assumed charge as the DoT's first secretary on Wednesday. After taking the reins of the DoT, Mittal, a Tamil Nadu cadre 1982 batch IAS officer, met telecom minister Ashwini Vaishnaw as well as senior officials of the department.

The senior bureaucrat is taking charge of the DoT at a time when key issues pertaining to the sector need to be finalised.

For instance, he will be tasked to decide on the terrestrial use of spectrum, particularly satellite airwaves. E and V band spectrum as well as a 6 GHz spectrum. The telecom and technology industries are at loggerheads over the allocation method. Apart from that, a decision needs to be taken on OTT regulation. Even though the issues are currently being debated by the Trai, a final decision has to be taken by the government. "We are enthused with him taking charge of the dynamic telecom sector of India," said S P Koochhar, director general of the Cellular Operators Association of India (COAI).

Apurva Chandra, who was having additional charge of Telecom Secretary DoT Member Technology Gungan Dave, Trai secretary V Raghunandan and DoT wireless advisor VJ Christopher. As per Trai's consultation paper on assignment of spectrum for space-based communication services, Ku band ranges from 10 GHz to 15 GHz, while Ka band ranges from 17 GHz to 31 GHz.

Jio said the New Zealand government has agreed to allocate 21.5-27.5 GHz primarily for mobile use with a flexible inclusion of satellite services in some areas. Bands in the 27.5-28.35 GHz range are to be shared for mobile and satellite services while 28.35-28.5 GHz is to be reserved for satellite services with the option to include some mobile use. "The above decisions show that New Zealand government has recognised the need for flexible use of spectrum in the wake of increasing technological convergence in telecommunication networks under integrated and converged satellite and terrestrial networks," Jio said in the letter to Trai chairman PD Vaghela. As per Trai, Ku band can be used for both fixed satellite services and mobile satellite services. The band is also common wave (mmWave) band, which is part of the Ka band, has been auctioned for 5G mobile use. Also, some airwaves in the Ka band are being used by telecom operators for backhaul purposes.

Jio wants flexible use for whatever quantum of bandwidth is reserved for satellite services in the Ka and Ku bands.

"We reiterate that the 6 GHz specifications in the radio spectrum allocation policy, the convergence of satellite and terrestrial networks. Therefore, several countries have been considering the assignment of spectrum for flexible use between terrestrial and satellite networks," Jio said. "As you are aware, spectrum is a finite and scarce resource and it is imperative for the provision of wireless broadband connectivity, therefore, the Authority should ensure the optimum and evolving technology centric allocation of spectrum," Jio added.

Satcom firms such as Bharti Group-backed OneWeb and Amazon are pitching for allocation of spectrum. They are pitted against telcos Reliance Jio and Vodafone Idea who want spectrum to be allotted to the higher bidder in auctions, just like in the case of telcos.
