Announcement - ALS Continues to Expand into USA Environmental Markets

Campbell Brothers Limited announces that its laboratory services business, the ALS Group, has acquired Analytical Laboratory Services Inc. based in the northeast of the United States of America for approximately US$11 million.

Analytical Laboratory Services, Inc. (ALSI) is a mid-sized environmental analytical laboratory company employing approximately 150 staff with laboratories located in Middletown, York and Spring City, in the state of Pennsylvania. Additionally, the company has four sales offices and service centres in Harrisburg and Chambersburg in Pennsylvania, Edison in New Jersey, and Columbia in Maryland. ALSI is a premier provider of industrial hygiene, environmental, drinking water and field sampling services. ALSI has earned an outstanding reputation, built on over 25 years of service to clients in a wide range of government sectors and commercial industries. The company's comprehensive suite of laboratory testing services provides its clients with high quality data for use in promoting human health and environmental protection.

ALSI will become part of the North American Environmental Division of ALS. ALS is one of the largest providers of environmental testing services in North America with 1200 staff and 24 laboratories across Canada, USA and Mexico. Globally, ALS employs in excess of 8,000 staff and operates more than 200 laboratories providing services to the mineral resources, environmental, coal, asset care, tribology, and food and pharmaceuticals sectors.
