Clarification of performance fee cap

In addition to the broadening of the investment guidelines announced on 13 December 2004, the Board of Wallace Absolute Return Limited (ASX:WAB) has agreed with Wallace Funds Management Pty Limited (Manager) to clarify the operation of the cap on the performance fee with respect to its timing and application as follows:

"The maximum Performance Fee payable to the Manager in any calendar year is capped at 3% of the Portfolio Value on the last Business Day of a Performance Calculation Period. The Performance Fee payable in respect of a Performance Calculation Period is the lower of:

- (i) the Performance Fee calculated in respect of the Performance Calculation Period; and
- (ii) 3% of the Portfolio Value on the last Business Day of the Performance Calculation Period, less the aggregate of Performance Fees paid since the beginning of the calendar year.

Any excess Performance Fee will not be carried forward to the following or any subsequent calendar year."

About Wallace Absolute Return Limited:

Wallace Absolute Return Limited ("Company") has been in operation since January 2003 and is a listed investment company on the Australian Stock Exchange ("ASX"). The Company is a market neutral fund offering investors the opportunity to participate in an absolute return product. The Company publishes its NAV weekly through the ASX and on its website (www.wallacefunds.com.au) providing investors with timely performance updates.

The Company's investment strategy involves the use of the Managers fundamental and quantitative research to identify assets that are mispriced relative to each other. The Company then allocates its capital according to the risk adjusted return expectations of each security in order to optimise the Company's total return for a given level of risk. Broadly, the level of risk is measured by the expected range of outcomes for each security. A greater expected range of outcomes indicates higher risk and results in less capital being allocated to that investment. As at the end of December 2004, the Company's portfolio was well diversified across the ASX 300 Index.

Features of the Company include:

Returns not correlated with equity market returns. The Company aims to offer investors the opportunity to achieve positive returns through capital growth and franked dividends in rising and falling markets. These returns may be attractive to investors who wish to diversify the return profile of their investment portfolio.

Franked Dividends: As a listed company, the Company generates franking credits which may be distributed to shareholders through fully franked dividends.

Dividend Re-investment Plan ("DRP"): Shareholders can elect to participate in the dividend re-investment plan. Shares allotted under the DRP are issued at the latest published NAV per share less a discount set by the Board. The Board has determined a discount of 5% should be applied for the time being.

Incentivised Fee Payment Structure: The Manager is paid a base management fee, and a performance fee only if fund returns are above a pre-determined positive hurdle rate. The hurdle rate is the RBA cash rate (5.25% on 18 January 2005). If the Manager does not attain a positive return, no performance fee is payable - this aligns the goals of shareholders and the Manager. Underperformance relative to the positive hurdle rate must be fully recouped before the Manager is entitled to a performance fee. (Also Note: All employees of the Manager are shareholders in the Company).

Flexibility in applying for shares: New investors can buy shares either on the ASX or through the Company's current prospectus. This allows investors to determine the most economical entry price. As new shares issued through the prospectus are issued at Net Asset Value, existing shareholders are not diluted.
