DRUG TESTING AVAILABLE FOR PARENTS

Perth's Harrington Group Limited (ASX: HGR) is to release its patented illicit drug screening products through national pharmacy groups in May.

Parents will be able to purchase a simple saliva test for less than $25 with which they can test a teenager for up to four illicit drugs, including marijuana, opiates, methamphetamines and cocaine, in less than 7 minutes.

The OraLine® saliva drug screen is a very simple to use, on-the-spot, non-invasive product that the company sells to existing overseas roadside and workplace testing markets as well as to Australian companies.

Harrington's managing director, Peter Boonen, said today: "Existing urine and hair tests do not identify impairment or recent drug use but cover historical use or exposure of up to six months which is arguably a period an employer for example would have no right to test." He said.

"Our OraLine product is considered the world's most advanced saliva screen because of its very low cut-off level. No other products meet the new US SAMHSA recommended guidelines for use in the US workplace."

"In Australia we have a high level of illicit drug use both recreationally and in the workplace, so the availability of a rapid, single step drug screen that can be purchased over the counter or sold to parents or employers is a breakthrough in the battle against drug abuse."

The Company, which through its 40% Sun Biomedical Laboratories subsidiary, produces a range of drug detection products in addition to OraLine, is also developing disease and diagnostic screening products.
