MobiData Group Signs First Sales Agreement

Fusia Limited, is pleased to announce that its wholly owned subsidiary Mobidata Group Pty Limited, has signed an agreement to resell the MobiPod mobile phone backup application with Secure Sentinel Pty Limited.

Secure Sentinel, a business of Vero Insurance Limited which is a major part of the ASX listed insurance group Promina, is Australia and New Zealand's leading provider of protection services for personal possessions and company property. Under the agreement with Mobidata Group Pty Limited, Secure Sentinel will re-brand the MobiPod technology to offer a secure mobile phone data backup and retrieval service to its current subscriber base of over 300,000 customers.

This non-exclusive agreement is on a revenue share basis with the responsibility of Sales, Marketing, Billing and Customer Support to be managed by Secure Sentinel with MobiData to maintain ongoing product development, maintenance and keeping up to date with new handsets as they become available to the market place.

MobiPod backs up data from mobile handsets such as contacts and calendar items onto a central web based server. Customers of Secure Sentinel's can then retrieve this information should their mobile phone go missing, be stolen, damaged or upgraded.

"The increasing sophistication of today's mobile phones has resulted in more critical information being stored on them," said Ms Denise Bofill, General Manager, Consumer products, Vero.

"Users cannot afford to lose access to this important information and with MobiPod technology, we can now extend our peace-of-mind promise to over a quarter of a million customers who rely on us to protect their personal property such as mobile phones."

MobiPod acts as a set-and-forget mobile handset data backup service that is automatically set to operate daily, weekly or at any interval the customer chooses. Once installed over the air on the phone, the service is automatically activated as long as the phone is switched on and within mobile range.

Richard Carey, Managing Director of MobiData Group said "The agreement with Secure Sentinel demonstrates growing market understanding of the benefits MobiPod technology can provide mobile phone users.

"MobiData Group understands the challenges of carriers and service providers in delivering profitable and relevant mobile services.

"Our software technology is handset operating system and network carrier agnostic.

"We deliver a fully integrated suite of consumer and enterprise applications to any IP (Internet) connected mobile handset, employing any operating system across any 2.5G or 3G data networks – quickly, affordably and securely."

It is anticipated that the product will be made available to the customers of Secure Sentinel by June 2005 with first revenues by July 2005.

MobiData continues to promote its suite of products for the Mobile handset to other resellers in Asia, Europe and North America.
