MOBI ONGOING REVENUES FROM INDIA ANTICIPATED TO EXCEED AUS$100K PER MONTH

After three years of development and the investment of Aus$2 million in sunk R&D costs, the Board of Mobi Ltd is pleased to announce that it's wholly owned subsidiary MobiData Group, has successfully completed the soft launch of mobile products in India's two largest metropolitan areas, with its local joint venture partner Radical SoftNet – on time and on budget.

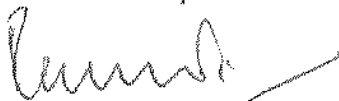

The ongoing revenues from this current product launch are conservatively estimated to be in excess of one hundred thousand Australian dollars per month. Revenues are expected to commence by June 2007 with national distribution across the entire Indian subcontinent to follow.

MobiData has launched MobiAV, a combined MobiGuard and MobiPod product, and MobiSMS – forming a comprehensive suite of mobile security applications for a wide range of mobile handsets. These products have been launched into the New Delhi and Mumbai markets which have populations of twenty million and twenty five million respectively. Mumbai is the world's sixth most populous metropolitan area.

The launch will be supported via advertising and through an established channel of over 200 distributors.

An extensive New Product Development program is also under way under the exclusive development agreement MobiData has signed with Radical SoftNet, which will rapidly extend its range of product offerings in the Indian market. MobiData will be distributing these products in other markets internationally in due course.
