Raptis Group Limited (RPG) resumes trading on ASX

Raptis Group Limited will tomorrow 10 December 2015 recommence trading on the Australian Securities Exchange.

Chairman Jim Raptis says it brings him a great sense of personal satisfaction to see the company resume trading.

"I take this opportunity to thank all our stakeholders and supporters who have been patient and worked with us to achieve this positive milestone," Mr Raptis says.

"It is an opportunity for the company to return value for shareholders by establishing an effective development team and embarking on a steady and strategic rollout of projects."

The company is working to prepare its first project on the south side of Brisbane for a construction start early next year.

"Subject to Council approval our first development will comprise 60 townhouses and will be complete within 12 months of commencement of construction," Mr Raptis says.

"All indicators are southeast Queensland will provide the best growth opportunities in the next few years and our first project is positioned to take advantage of this.

"We will be pursuing other development sites and will advise the market when these new development opportunities are secured."
