Integrated Research Limited Revises Outlook for 2003

Sydney, Australia, 13 June 2003 - Integrated Research (ASX:IRI) (IR), leading developer and provider of systems and application management solutions for high availability computing environments, today revised its outlook for the year to 30 June 2003.

New sales in the fourth quarter have not met earlier forecasts due to continuing adverse trading conditions in global IT markets, and as a consequence IR expects to incur a loss in the second half of the financial year. NPAT for the full year is likely to be in the range of $0.5 million to $1.4 million.
