

CVCHECK PARTNERS WITH PAGEUP

- CVCheck has entered into a partnership and platform integration with PageUp - HR software provider
- This is a strategically important partnership for both firms
- Revenue share incentivizes both firms to deepen the commercial partnership further
- The move builds on CVCheck's growing list of successful HR software integration projects

Leading online screening and verification company, CV Check Limited (ASX: CV1) is extremely pleased to announce that it has finalised a partnership and integration arrangement with PageUp People Pty Ltd, a leading Human Resources Information Software (HRIS) platform for large enterprises in Australia. The integration of CVCheck into the PageUp HRIS platform will allow PageUp customers (which include Telstra, Programmed, Linfox and many other large and small enterprises) to further streamline their HR processes and improve risk management, compliance and safety by including the employee verification and pre-screening services that CVCheck provides. Some enterprises, including Alinta Energy, are already customers of both PageUp and CVCheck.

CEO Rod Sherwood said "This arrangement is strategically important to both firms with PageUp customers enjoying immediate business benefits. PageUp provides HRIS services to roughly a quarter of Australia's large employers and CVCheck is a leading background screening provider.

Finalising the long running project drew on and demonstrated the extensive commercial skills and experience of both companies and people relationships that developed between the two firms as we progressed, mutual customer engagement was also important during the project.

The resultant foundation of commercial and technology relationships now provides great confidence that the two firms will work collaboratively and effectively in bringing a full screening and verification solution to PageUp customers.

These relationships are further incentivised through modest revenue share between CVCheck and PageUp.

CVCheck thanks the technology, legal, marketing, business development and commercial teams of both firms for their professionalism and patience throughout and congratulates all involved in reaching this important milestone.

The technical software integration was concluded with remarkable speed as a consequence of extensive development work on our Checks as a Service API feature. Similar integration with Springboard's HRIS platform occurred earlier in the year and the commercial teams are now also progressing on deeper commercial engagement. More technology integration projects with other key providers are currently in train, it is anticipated that commercial team engagement for some of these will commence ahead of the end of this calendar year."
