Open Day and Commissioning of SecureTouch Automated Assembly Machine

Safety Medical Products Limited would like to invite Shareholders, members of the public and any other interested parties to the Company's open day on Monday, March 5th 2007 at its' Salisbury facility from 3pm to 7pm.

The main attraction will be the company's brand new automated assembly machine that is capable of assembling a minimum of 4000 units of SecureTouch Retractable Syringes per hour resulting in a minimum production of 33million units per year.

The Machine's Command Centre and extensive camera vision system monitors every syringe from recognition and identification of initial components through the entire assembly process to completion of the finished product. It will also strength test 100% of the finished product before release as part of our strict Quality Assurance System.

This web linked state of the art equipment will also enable SMP to monitor production by any of these machines placed anywhere in the world from our base in Adelaide. This will ensure strict compliance for any future licensing, royalty or manufacturing arrangements as well as providing instant access to and an ability to solve production problems wherever they may occur.

The machine will be in full operation throughout the open day with the designers and builders, ProControl Systems on hand to discuss and demonstrate the machine's capabilities and answer any production related questions.

The day will provide a unique opportunity to view the company's technological achievements ahead of the machine being sent to the Exel Syringe Manufacturing Facility in Korea for full production.

The complete range of SafetyMed's products including SecureTouch Retractable Syringes, MediTags, Automatic Tape Dispensers, Disposable Thermometers, Freeze Indicators and Surgical Masks will also be able to be viewed on the day.

The Board of Directors and Medical Advisory Committee will be present throughout the day and available to discuss the company's progress and achievements with shareholders and visitors.
