A. Appendix – Risks

A. Appendix

Risks

Treasury Group Ltd

This section summarises some of the key risks that may affect the future performance of an investment in TRG. This is not an exhaustive list of the potential risks. If any of the following risks materialise, TRG's business, financial condition and operating results may be adversely impacted. Additional risks not presently known to TRG or, if known, that are not presently considered material, may also have an adverse impact.

In deciding whether to participate in the Placement or the SPP, you should read this presentation in its entirety and carefully consider the risks outlined in this section. You should also consider consulting your financial or legal adviser so as to ensure you understand fully the terms of the Placement and the SPP and the inherent risks.

Specific Risks

Global market risks

The nature of the business of TRG means that TRG is always exposed to market volatility and potential adverse market conditions. Major international listed equity markets continue to display volatility on both upside and downside with publicised global macro risks such as European growth and deflation, slower growth in China and monetary policies in the US and Japan. These risks are external and beyond the control of TRG and its boutique fund managers. TRG's FUM reflects the investment performance of its boutique fund managers, in addition to other factors such as funds flowing into and out of FUM. Market volatility and adverse market conditions may lead to a decline in FUM and the performance of TRG's business which may adversely affect TRG's earnings and profitability.

Regulatory environment risks

The business of TRG operates in a highly regulated environment that is frequently subject to review and regular change of law, regulations and policies. TRG will be exposed to any changes in the regulatory conditions under which it and its boutique fund managers operate in Australia and overseas. Such regulatory changes can include, for instance, changes in:

- financial services laws, such as the Future of Financial Advice Reforms Act and related legislation, and superannuation and compulsory contribution levels;
- taxation laws and policies;
- accounting laws, policies, standards and practices;
- privacy laws; and
- anti money laundering and counter terrorism funding laws.

Non underwritten offer

The Placement and SPP are not underwritten and accordingly there is no certainty that TRG will raise sufficient funds under the offer to meet its objectives from the capital raising.

Merger risk

TRG has recently completed its merger with Northern Lights Capital Group. There is a risk that TRG's success and profitability could be adversely affected if the continued implementation of the merger takes longer or costs more than expected or if the anticipated benefits and synergies of the merger are less than estimated. Possible problems may include differences in management culture between the two organisations; unanticipated costs or delays relating to integration of information or accounting systems; and loss of key personnel. These integration issues may adversely impact the earnings and profitability of TRG.

Competition risk

There is substantial competition for the provision of financial services in the markets in which TRG operates. TRG must compete with a variety of market participants who compete vigorously for investments and the provision of financial services. These competitive market conditions may adversely impact on the earnings and assets of TRG.

Reliance on key management risk

TRG depends substantially on its senior management to oversee the day-to-day operations and the strategic management of TRG. There can be no assurance given that there will be no detrimental impact on TRG if one or more of these senior managers cease their employment.

Operational risks

TRG has operational exposure to its business and the businesses of its boutique fund managers including exposures in relation to disclosure, investment management, legal and regulatory compliance, tax and financial advice, process error, system failure, failure of security and failure to meet privacy requirements.

Inability to achieve or fund its strategic plans risk

TRG's stated strategies include the expansion and diversification of its portfolio, strengthening of its distribution capabilities, improved access to capital and consideration of M&A opportunities. TRG's continued ability to implement its strategies over time may be impacted by a variety of factors including market volatility, an inability to generate organic growth, an inability to capitalise on identified acquisition or expansion opportunities, an inability to successfully integrate acquired businesses and acquired or expanded businesses not meeting expectations.

TRG's ability to pursue its strategies may in part also depend on its ability to raise additional equity and debt and for Aurora Trust and its boutique funds managers to raise additional equity and debt. Any additional equity financing may be dilutive to securityholders, including TRG as a unitholder of Aurora Trust, and any debt financing, if available, may involve restrictions on operations and in any case debt financing may not be available at all.

General Risks

General economic conditions

The financial performance of TRG may be affected by a number of factors outside its control and which are common to public companies generally or common to companies operating in the industries in which TRG operates. These factors include:

- movements in the Australian and international equity markets;
- movements in foreign currency exchange rates;
- the liquidity of the market for TRG Shares;
- the level of interest and inflation rates;
- the level of borrowing, if any, which TRG, Aurora Trust or the boutique fund managers undertake;
- general economic conditions;
- government, fiscal, monetary and regulatory policies;
- levels of consumer confidence and spending;
- access to debt and capital markets; and
- acts of terrorism, hostilities, war or natural disasters.

You should be aware that the price at which TRG shares are traded on the ASX may rise or fall and may fall below the price at which shares are offered in the Placement and SPP.

A. Appendix Risks (cont.)

Share market fluctuations

There are risks associated with an investment in a company listed on the ASX. The value of TRG's shares may rise above or fall below the current price and the Placement and SPP price depending on the financial and operating performance of TRG and external factors over which TRG has no control. These external factors include economic conditions in Australia and overseas, changing investor sentiment in the local and international stock markets, changes in domestic or international fiscal, monetary, regulatory or other government policies and developments and general conditions in the markets in which the company operates or proposes to operate and which may impact on the future value and pricing of shares.

Accounting standards

TRG prepares its financial statements in accordance with relevant accounting standards and the Corporations Act. The accounting standards may change, and any change is outside the control of TRG. Such changes may adversely impact the financial performance and position of TRG reported in its financial statements.

Liquidity risk

There can be no guarantee that a more liquid market in TRG's shares will develop or that the price of the shares will increase. There may be relatively few or many potential buyers or sellers of the shares on ASX at any time. This may increase the volatility of the market price of the shares. It may also affect the prevailing market price at which shareholders are able to sell their shares. This may result in shareholders who acquire shares under the Placement or SPP receiving a market price for their shares that is less or more than the offer price that shareholders paid.

Litigation risk

Legal proceedings and claims may arise from time to time in the ordinary course of TRG's business. There is a risk that material or costly claims or litigation could impact on TRG's financial performance and reputation and have an effect on the profitability and value of TRG.

Dilution

Future capital raisings or equity funded acquisitions by TRG may dilute the holdings of particular shareholders (relative to other shareholders). TRG may need to raise additional capital in the future in order to meet its operating or financing requirements (including by way of additional borrowings or increases in the equity of any of the companies within TRG), not all of which can be anticipated at this point in time. In the event that an increase in the equity of TRG is required, particular shareholders may be requested to subscribe for additional equity which may be substantial. To the extent that shareholders do not subscribe to such additional equity, or are otherwise not invited to subscribe, their holdings in TRG may be diluted (relative to other shareholders).
