The WAM Global (ASX: WGB) investment portfolio increased during the month. Contributors to the investment portfolio performance were financial technology leader Intuit (NASDAQ: INTU) and multinational payment technology company Visa (NYSE: V).

INTUIT

Intuit is a global financial technology platform serving millions of consumers and small businesses around the world, providing application software solutions for business management and payroll processing, personal finance and tax preparation and filing software solutions. In May, Intuit delivered a strong FY2025 third quarter earnings result, ahead of market expectations. Total revenue grew 15% year-on-year and adjusted earnings per share (EPS) grew 18% year-on-year. Encouragingly, Intuit also raised its forward-looking guidance and now expects adjusted EPS growth of approximately 18% to 19% year-on-year, above previous expectations of 13% to 14%, highlighting the strong momentum the company is experiencing. Growth was driven across Intuit's multiple franchises proven by TurboTax's product-led growth, validating its strong market position across the assisted tax segment. It continues to drive adoption as a price disruptor and continued strength in the company's ability to capture share in the larger and relatively untapped mid-market opportunity. Looking ahead, we see additional growth opportunities with Intuit's expanding artificial intelligence (AI) roadmap, with the introduction of AI agents that can unlock cross-selling opportunities across its platform.

VISA

Visa is a leading provider of digital payment technologies, facilitating transactions between consumers, merchants, financial institutions and government entities across the globe. Visa's intra-quarter investor update in May highlighted stable US payment volume trends, driven by resilient consumer spending underpinned by steady wage growth and moderating inflationary pressures. Looking ahead, we maintain a positive outlook on Visa, given the substantial barriers to entry faced by prospective competitors due to the company's entrenched market position and extensive global payment infrastructure. The company has displayed the ability to leverage its data analytics and technological capabilities to innovate, develop value-added services and expand into new payment flows. Collectively, these strengths position Visa effectively to capitalise upon the global shift toward digital payments, creating new revenue opportunities and continue to drive earnings growth for the foreseeable future.

Fully franked dividends since inception

The Board declared a fully franked interim dividend of 6.5 cents per share paid on 30 May 2025 and a special fully franked dividend of 4.0 cents per share payable on 31 July 2025.
