The Content should not be relied upon in making investment or other business decisions, and is not a substitute for the skills, judgment or experience of users, their management, employees, advisors and/or clients in making such decisions. S&P does not serve as an expert or investment and/or securities advisor, except where it is registered as such. Ratings reports are correct at their time of publication. S&P updates the rating reports as a result of ongoing monitoring of events or of annual review.

S&P gathers information from sources it deems reliable, but does not audit the information and is not obliged to perform due diligence or independent verification of the information it receives. S&P issues reports related to ratings for various reasons that are not necessarily the result of a rating committee, including the publication of periodic updates regarding credit ratings and related analyses.

In order to maintain the independence and objectivity of the operations of its different units, S&P maintains a separation between these operations. As a result, certain units may have information that is not available to other S&P units. S&P has established procedures and processes to maintain the confidentiality of certain non-public information obtained in connection with any analytical process it conducts.

S&P receives monetary compensation for providing its rating and analytical services, usually from the issuers or underwriters of the rated securities, or from obligors. S&P reserves the right to distribute its opinions and analytical reviews. Public ratings and analyses by S&P appear on the S&P Maalot website at maalot.co.il or on the S&P website at spglobal.com/ratings, and may also be distributed by other means, including in publications by S&P and third parties.
