Notes Table

No.	Note
1	To the best knowledge of the company and its directors, the controlling shareholder of the company is LFH, which holds about 69.58% of the issued and paid-up share capital of the company (before the sale subject to this report). To the best knowledge of the company, LFH shares are held by members of the Lewis family directly and/or through various companies and trusts. About 45% of LFH shares are held (separately) by Messrs. Bernard Lewis, Leonard Lewis, Simon Lewis, Benjamin Lewis, Julian Lewis, Clive Lewis (divided unequally among them, with none holding more than 10% of LFH shares), who also serve as directors in LFH. The remaining LFH shares are held (separately) by companies, trusts, or individuals from the Lewis family (divided unequally among them, with none of the additional holders holding more than 12.5% of LFH shares). According to the above information, and information provided to the company by LFH and its main shareholders, stating that there is no agreement or any other coordination among them regarding the management of their holdings in LFH, including their voting in the board of directors or the general meeting of LFH, the company's position is that LFH shareholders do not jointly hold its shares and that none of LFH's shareholders is a controlling shareholder in LFH and therefore also not a controlling shareholder in the company.
The position of the Israel Securities Authority staff, as conveyed to the company, is that under the circumstances detailed above, including in light of the family relationship between the

No.	Note
shareholders, the ISA staff views the LFH articles of association as an agreement creating joint holding among all LFH shareholders, considering that the articles of association regulate, among other things, the decision-making process in the private company and therefore, according to this position, constitute a voting agreement among the shareholders. Therefore, according to the ISA staff's position, all shareholders in LFH, including shareholders in companies holding LFH shares and beneficiaries in trusts holding LFH, should be considered controlling shareholders in the company. In light of the above, the company agreed to state the above and the ISA staff's position in relevant reports regarding interested party holdings in the company, and to report any transaction between the company and any of LFH's shareholders (except for an insignificant transaction) in an immediate report, including transactions under Regulation 3 of the Securities Regulations (Transaction between a company and its controlling shareholder), 2001, as amended, and in the periodic report under Regulation 22 of the Securities Regulations (Periodic and Immediate Reports), 1970, stating the ISA's position on the matter.
