Inwido invests SEK 80 million to increase efficiency and pace of innovation

Inwido is investing, initially SEK 80 million until mid-2017, to increase production efficiency and the pace at which new products are developed. This was announced by Inwido's President and CEO, Håkan Jeppsson, during the company's analyst and media day, being held today at the company's factory in Vetlanda.

"As the group grows, it is natural that we now gradually increase and intensify our investments," says Håkan Jeppsson. "The investments will mainly be made based on two fundamental aspects of strategy: partly to improve efficiency in production by increasing the level of automation, and partly to facilitate and accelerate the development of new products and concepts."

The bulk of the investments are being made to modernize and automate parts of production in Sweden, but also in Denmark and Norway. Other major investments are being made in new products with smart, digital solutions ("smart windows") and a gradual upgrading of the Group's business systems.
