Key Audit Matters	Auditor's response
Implementation of Inflation Accounting As per the announcement dated 23.11.2023 by the Public Oversight, Accounting and Auditing Standards Authority (KGK) regarding the classification of the Company's functional currency (Turkish Lira) as a currency of a hyperinflationary economy, the Company has started implementing TAS 29 "Financial Reporting in Hyperinflationary Economies" as of 31.12.2023. Under TAS 29, the attached financial statements and financial information for previous periods have been restated to reflect changes in the general purchasing power of the Turkish Lira and are presented in terms of the purchasing power of the Turkish Lira as of 31.12.2023. When preparing its inflation-sensitive financial statements, the Company used the Consumer Price Index (CPI) published monthly by the Turkish Statistical Institute ("TÜİK"). Considering the impact of TAS 29 on the Company's reported results and financial position, hyperinflation accounting has been assessed as a key audit matter. The accounting policies and related disclosures regarding inflation adjustment practices are included in Note 2.	During our audit, in relation to the audit of TAS 29 "Financial Reporting in Hyperinflationary Economies", in addition to these, the following audit procedures were applied - Discussions with management responsible for financial reporting regarding the principles considered during the implementation of TAS 29, identification of non-monetary items, and evaluation of discussions and calculations related to TAS 29, - Testing of inputs and indices used to ensure the completeness and accuracy of TAS 29 calculations, - Examination of the financial statements and related notes restated in accordance with TAS 29, - Evaluation of the adequacy of information in Note 2, in financial statements and related note disclosures, from the perspective of TAS 29. As a result of these procedures we conducted regarding the application of TAS 29 "Financial Reporting in Hyperinflationary Economies", we did not identify any significant findings.

5. Responsibilities of Management and Those Charged with Governance for the Financial Statements

Management is responsible for the preparation and fair presentation of the financial statements in accordance with TFRS, and for such internal control as management determines is necessary to enable the preparation of financial statements that are free from material misstatement, whether due to fraud or error.

In preparing the financial statements, management is responsible for assessing the Company's ability to continue as a going concern, disclosing, as applicable, matters related to going concern and using the going concern basis of accounting unless management either intends to liquidate the Company or to cease operations, or has no realistic alternative but to do so.

Those charged with governance are responsible for overseeing the Company's financial reporting process.

6. Auditor's Responsibilities for the Audit of the Financial Statements

In an independent audit, our responsibilities as the auditors are:

Our objectives are to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements as a whole are free from material misstatement, whether due to fraud or error, and to issue an auditor's report that includes our opinion. Reasonable assurance is a high level of assurance but is not a guarantee that an audit conducted in accordance with standards on auditing as issued by the Capital Markets Board of Turkey and IAS will always detect a material misstatement when it exists. Misstatements can arise from fraud or error and are considered material if, individually or in the aggregate, they could reasonably be expected to influence the economic decisions of users taken on the basis of these financial statements.

As part of an audit in accordance with standards on auditing as issued by the Capital Markets Board of Turkey and IAS, we exercise professional judgment and maintain professional skepticism throughout the audit. We also:

- Identify and assess the risks of material misstatement of the financial statements, whether due to fraud or error, design and perform audit procedures responsive to those risks, and obtain audit evidence that is sufficient and appropriate to provide a basis for our opinion. The risk of not detecting a material misstatement resulting from fraud is higher than for one resulting from error, as fraud may involve collusion, forgery, intentional omissions, misrepresentations, or the override of internal control.
- Obtain an understanding of internal control relevant to the audit in order to design audit procedures that are appropriate in the circumstances, but not for the purpose of expressing an opinion on the effectiveness of the Company's internal control.
- Evaluate the appropriateness of accounting policies used and the reasonableness of accounting estimates and related disclosures made by management.
- Conclude on the appropriateness of management's use of the going concern basis of accounting and, based on the audit evidence obtained, whether a material uncertainty exists related to events or conditions that may cast significant doubt on the Company's ability to continue as a going concern. If we conclude that a material uncertainty exists, we are required to draw attention in our auditor's report to the related disclosures in the financial statements or, if such disclosures are inadequate, to modify our opinion. Our conclusions are based on the audit evidence obtained up to the date of our auditor's report. However, future events or conditions may cause the Company to cease to continue as a going concern.
- Evaluate the overall presentation, structure and content of the financial statements, including the disclosures, and whether the financial statements represent the underlying transactions and events in a manner that achieves fair presentation.

We communicate with those charged with governance regarding, among other matters, the planned scope and timing of the audit and significant audit findings, including any significant deficiencies in internal control that we identify during our audit.

We also provide those charged with governance with a statement that we have complied with relevant ethical requirements regarding independence, and to communicate with them all relationships and other matters that may reasonably be thought to bear on our independence, and where applicable, related safeguards.

From the matters communicated with those charged with governance, we determine those matters that were of most significance in the audit of the financial statements of the current period and are therefore the key audit matters. We describe these matters in our auditor's report unless law or regulation precludes public disclosure about the matter or when, in extremely rare circumstances, we determine that a matter should not be communicated in our report because the adverse consequences of doing so would reasonably be expected to outweigh the public interest benefits of such communication.
